

Samuel Beckett and trauma

EDITED BY MARIKO HORI TANAKA, YOSHIKI TAJIRI AND MICHIKO TSUSHIMA

Manchester University Press

Contents

List of contributors	vii
Acknowledgements	xi
Introduction	1
Mariko Hori Tanaka, Yoshiki Tajiri and Michiko Tsushima, with Robert Eaglestone
Part I: Trauma symptoms
1 Beckett and trauma: the father's death and the sea Julie Campbell	23
2 'Void cannot go': trauma and actor process in the theatre of Samuel Beckett Nicholas E. Johnson	46
Part II: Body and subjectivity
3 Insignificant residues : trauma, face and figure in Samuel Beckett David Houston Jones	71
4 'The skin of words': trauma and skin in Watt Michiko Tsushima	94
5 Bodily object voices in Embers Anna Sigg	116

Part III: Historical and cultural contexts

- | | | |
|---|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 6 | Trauma and ordinary objects in Virginia Woolf and Samuel Beckett
Yoshiki Tajiri | 135 |
| 7 | Smiling tigers: trauma, sexuality and creaturely life in Echo's Bones
Conor Carville | 155 |
| 8 | The global trauma of the nuclear age in Beckett's post-war plays
Mariko Hori Tanaka | 173 |
| | Index | 194 |