CONTENTS

List of participants	ix
Preface	xiii
Lectures
C. Fuganti Baker's yeast mediated preparation of carbohydrate-like chiral synthons	3
G. L. Lemière Alcohol dehydrogenase catalysed oxidoreduction reactions in organic chemistry	19
H. Simon* , H. Günther and J. Thanos On the use of viologen dyes for stereospecific bioreduction	35
E. Winterfeldt Approaches to chiral building blocks for natural product synthesis	45
S. M. Roberts Use of microorganisms for the resolution of synthetically useful bicyclo[3.2.0]hept-2-en-6-ones	55
S. E. Godtfredsen* , K. Ingvorsen , B. Yde and O. Andresen The scope of biocatalysts in organic chemical processing	77
H. - J. Gais Enantioselective synthesis of biologically active cyclopentanoids via enzyme catalysed asymmetric reactions	97
M. Ohno* , S. Kobayashi and K. Adachi Creation of novel chiral synthons with pig liver esterase: application to natural product synthesis and the substrate recognition	123
D. W. Brooks Application of microbial transformations in the total synthesis of natural products	143

P. Sinaj Approaches to chiral building blocks for natural products synthesis	171
D. Hoppe Synthesis of enantiomerically pure unnatural compounds via non-biomimetic homoaldol reactions	177
C.-H. Wong Aldolases as catalysts in organic synthesis	199
S. Y. R. Pugh Immobilised redox enzymes and their use as catalysts for fine chemical synthesis	217
O. Ghisalba* , H.-P. Schär and G. M. Ramos Tombo Applications of microbes and microbial enzymes in environmental control and organic synthesis	233
D. W. Young Synthesis of chirally labelled substrates using enzymes	251
C. Wandrey Synthesis of L-amino acids by isolated enzymes and microorganisms	263
E. H. Reimerdes Development of an enzyme reactor for food chemistry	285
D. Hilvert* and E. T. Kaiser Preparation and properties of semisynthetic flavoenzymes	303
R. J. Leatherbarrow* , T. N. C. Wells and A. R. Fersht The study and redesign of enzymes by protein engineering	311
K. P. Nambiar , J. Stackhouse , S. R. Presnell and S. A. Benner* Evolutionary guidance and the engineering of enzymes	325
Posters
G. Guanti* , L. Banfi , E. Narisano and A. Guaragna Baker's yeast mediated synthesis of protected α -hydroxyaldehydes	343
B.F. Riefling* , W. K. Brümmer and H. J. Gais Enantioselective PLE-catalyzed hydrolysis of meso-dimethyl tetrahydrophthalate on a 100 mole scale - protection of the enzyme by addition of bovine serum albumin	347
G. Berti Enantio- and diastereoselectivity of microsomal epoxide hydrolase: potential applications to the preparation of non-racemic epoxides and diols	349

W. H. J. Boesten, B. H. N. Dassen, P. L. Kerkhoffs, M. J. A. Roberts, M. J. H. Cals, P. J. H. Peters, J. A. M. van Balken, E. M. Meijer and H. E. Schoemaker* Efficient enzymic production of enantiomerically pure amino acids	355
R. Furstoss*, A. Archelas, J. D. Fourneron, B. Vigne Biohydroxylation of non activated carbon atoms. A model for the hydroxylation site of the fungus beauveria sulfureus	361
J. M. C. Duarte "Sterols Bioconversions in systems with an organic phase"	371
J. Tramper*, C. Laane and J. A. M. de Bont* Second-generation biocatalysis	383
Round-table discussions	391
I. Nicotinamide recycling	392
II. Enzymatic hydrolysis of nitriles, amides, urethanes and carbonates	394
III. Enzymes in organic solvents. Enzymatic esterification	395
IV. General discussion "Where do we go?". Conclusions and suggestions	397
- Chiral building blocks
- Role of enzymes in protection and deprotection
- Regioselective reactions using enzymes
- New areas for enzyme applications
- Artificial coenzymes, genetic- and proteinengineering
- Requests from synthetic organic chemists
- Final remarks
