

Table of contents

Acknowledgments — v

List of Abbreviations — ix

Introduction — 1

I The Tempest. Staging the Weather — 17

- 1 Title — 18
- 2 Weather and theatre — 21
- 3 The tempest scene — 25
- 4 Miranda and Prospero – exposition — 43
- 5 God of power – temporal royalties — 58
- 6 The climate of th'isle — 74
- 7 Gonzalo's plantation and Prospero's masque — 94
- 8 Bringing the play to an end — 127

II Werther. Reading the Weather — 147

- 1 Werther and his environment — 148
- 2 The birth of a weathery medium – the ball-scene — 159
- 2.1 Breaking/Transgressing the circles — 160
- 2.2 Werther's "pretentious meteorology [anmaßliche Wetterkunde]" — 171
- 2.3 Love and weather – a parallel threat to order — 181
- 2.4 The waltz – flying like the weather — 188
- 2.5 Clever closures – restoration of order — 210
- 2.6 The epiphany of the weathery medium — 216
- 3 Well and hut – idyll and prison — 233
- 4 At the limits of human nature – the novel's storm and urge — 266
- 5 Werther's passio – and his Ossianic resurrection — 290

III Les Rougon-Macquart. Describing the Weather – and a Changing Climate — 317

- 1 From weather to climate — 317
- 2 Milieu — 330
- 3 Global warming – the old and the new Paris — 361
- 4 Meteoropoi – the proliferation of the hothouse — 389
- 4.1 The bar – Paris inebriated — 396

viii — Table of contents

4.2	The coal-pit – battle of weathers —	404
4.3	The department store – a weather machine —	411
4.4	The hothouse (effect) —	425
5	The weather of the masses —	446
6	Climate catastrophes, climate crises – the seasons and life —	473
7	Mastery – the end of modern aesthetics —	531
Conclusion —		552
Works Cited —		566
Index —		585