Contents

Foreword .......................................................................................................................... IX

1 English Language Teaching and English Language Education—History and Methods (Sabine Doff) ........................................... 1

1.1 Background: milestones of ELT history in Germany and Europe since ca. 1800 ............................................................... 2

1.2 Methods as an anchor of language teaching across the centuries ................................................................. 4

1.3 Foreign language education (FLE) and English language education (ELE) as academic disciplines in Germany .......... 10

1.4 Conclusion: reasons for studying ELT/ELE history .......... 15

2 Institutionalised Foreign Language Learning—Teaching English at Different Levels (Daniela Elsner) ................................ 17

2.1 The German EFL classroom as part of the European education system ................................................................. 17

2.2 First encounters with foreign languages—EFL in the primary classroom ........................................................... 24

2.3 EFL at secondary level I—preparing learners for private and professional lives ..................................................... 27

2.4 Preparing learners for an academic career—EFL at secondary level II ................................................................. 31

2.5 Training on and for the job—EFL in vocational schools ...... 33

2.6 New paths in foreign languages education ..................... 34

2.7 Conclusion .................................................................................. 37

3 Teachers of English as a Foreign Language—Experience and Professional Development (Britta Viebrock) ..................... 39

3.1 Between experiential knowledge and formal academic education: English language teachers' mind-sets ..................... 40

3.2 Characteristics of the good English language teacher: reflective practice and professionalism ......................... 42

3.3 Professional development and models of language teacher education ............................................................. 49

3.4 Future challenges of the English language teaching profession ................................................................. 52

3.5 Conclusion ............................................................................ 55
14 Assessment—What, Why and How? (Karin Vogt) ..................... 249
14.1 Assessment: what is it and what is important about it? ............ 250
14.2 The why: purposes of assessment ........................................... 253
14.3 Effective assessment design .................................................... 254
14.4 Beyond testing: alternatives in assessment ......................... 262
14.5 Conclusion and outlook: current trends in classroom-based language assessment ......................................................... 266

15 Authors ...................................................................................... 267
16 Bibliography .............................................................................. 269
17 Index ........................................................................................... 293