

WELFARE IN TRANSITION

*A Survey of Living Conditions in Sweden
1968-1981*

Edited by
ROBERT ERIKSON AND RUNE ÅBERG

CLARENDON PRESS · OXFORD
1987

Contents

List of Abbreviations	xvi
Contributing Authors	xvii
1 The Nature and Distribution of Welfare	1
Robert Erikson and Rune Åberg
Theoretical starting points	2
Principles for description	5
Some findings	9
Are we heading towards fewer differences?	13
2 Regression as a Tool for describing Variations in	14
the Level of Living
Jan Selén
3 The Class Structure and its Trends	19
Robert Erikson
The distribution of the classes and occupational groups	19
Class and community type	26
Has the working class become smaller?	28
Social mobility	32
Inflow to the classes	34
Outflow	36
Career mobility	39
Summary	41
4 Disparities in Mortality	43
Robert Erikson
Sex differences in mortality	43
Disparities in mortality among classes and occupational groups	53
Mortality as indicator	57
5 Health and Health Care Utilization	59
Sven-Åke Kjellström and Olle Lundberg
Introduction	59
Physical health	60
Mental health	64
Utilization of health care	64
Final comments	74

6	Employment and Working Hours	78
	Rune Åberg
	Introduction	78
	The level of employment	79
	Unemployment	81
	The level of employment and types of working hours among women	82
	Sexual segregation in the labour market	85
	Changes in ordinary working hours among employees	90
	Employees' actual working hours	93
	Summary	100
7	Working Conditions	102
	Rune Åberg
	Introduction	102
	The physical working conditions of employees	106
	Job autonomy	107
	Mental stress in the workplace	111
	Qualification levels among employees	112
	Summary	114
8	Economic Resources	117
	Rune Åberg, Jan Selén, and Henrik Tham
	Introduction	117
	Distribution of individual incomes	120
	Household incomes	133
	Consumption and wealth	143
	Conclusion	151
	Appendix: definition of disposable income	152
9	Educational Resources	154
	Janne Jonsson
	Education — intrinsic value and resource value	154
	Data	157
	Educational reforms	158
	More people are studying for longer periods	161
	The distribution of education	163
	Education and occupational position	168
	Education — a relative resource	171
	Where are we heading?	172
	Results and trends	178

10	Housing Conditions	181
	Tofte Frykman
	Background and issues	181
	Definitions	182
	Distribution of space and equipment standards	184
	Forms of tenure	189
11	Political Resources	194
	Ryszard Szulkin
	Introduction	194
	Political participation	196
	Membership and activity in trade union organizations	203
	The active and the passive	210
	Self-defence against the authorities	213
	Final comment	213
12	Family and Social Integration	217
	Christina Axelsson
	Social relationships in a welfare perspective	217
	Family as primary integration	219
	Living alone	222
	Social interaction with relatives and friends	224
	Isolation from family, relatives, and friends	228
	Primary social integration — concluding remarks	231
13	Leisure and Recreation	234
	Michael Tåhlin
	Introduction	234
	The scope of leisure	236
	The nature of leisure	242
14	Coexistence of Welfare Problems	258
	Robert Erikson and Michael Tåhlin
	Introduction	258
	Occurrence of problems: overview 1968–1981	259
	Dimensions in the distribution of welfare	261
	Accumulated problems within population groups	269
	Discussion	274
	Appendix: delimiting the problems	278
	Appendix A: Sampling and data collection	282
	Appendix B: A Regression Approach, background and details	287
	Bibliography	291