

Úr Döllum til Dala

Guðbrandur Vigfússon Centenary Essays

Edited by
Rory McTurk and Andrew Wawn

Leeds Texts and Monographs

New Series 11

1989

Contents

Editorial preface	page vii
Frontispiece: Guðbrandur Vigfússon (artist: H.M. Paget)	ix
Guðbrandur Vigfússon's saga chronology: the case of Ljósvetninga saga Theodore M. Andersson Stanford, California	1
Guðbrandur Vigfússon: a biographical sketch B. S. Benedikz Birmingham	11
The beguiling of Þórr Michael Chesnutt Copenhagen	35
The order of the wooing episodes in Hallfreðar saga Robert Cook New Orleans, Louisiana	65
The scope of the Corpus Poeticum Boreale Ursula Dronke Oxford	93
"For the sake of": the transmutation of a word group in thirteenth- and fourteenth-century Icelandic prose Peter Hallberg Gothenburg	113
Gunnar Gunnarsson and Icelandic folktales Sveinn Skorri Höskuldsson Reykjavík	145
Sagas, Snorri, and the literary criticism of scaldic verse O.D. Macrae-Gibson Aberdeen	165
"Máhlíðingamál": authorship and tradition in a part of Eyrbyggja saga Vésteinn Ólason Oslo	187
The wife's lament and Skírnismál : some parallels P.R. Orton London	205
Objects and oral tradition in medieval Iceland Richard Perkins London	239

The cognitive approach to scaldic poetics, from Snorri to Vigfússon and beyond	Margaret Clunies Ross	Sydney	267
Guðbrandur Vigfússon as lexicographer	Svavar Sigmundsson	Reykjavík	287
"Söguljóð, skrök, háð": Snorri Sturluson's attitude to poetry	Sverrir Tómasson	Reykjavík	317