

Japanese Economy & Labor Series No. 4

Japanese Employment Practices

---

Table of Contents

A Note of Explanation about this Series

Introduction	1
Prologue	3
I. Current Situation of Employment Practices	7
1. Lifetime employment	7
2. Seniority-based wages	10
3. Formation and establishment of Japanese employment practices	12
II. Misunderstandings concerning Japanese Employment Practices	14
1. "Lifetime employment" is often misunderstood	14
2. Seniority-based wages reflect differences in ability	19
3. Misunderstanding in statistical implications	21
III. Changes in Japanese Employment Practices—the Real Picture	26
1. Changes in the lifetime employment system	27
1.1 Early retirement scheme with better arrangements	27
1.2 Temporary and permanent transfer to an affiliated company	31
2. The increase of non-lifetime employment	37
2.1 From stock to flow—transformation of labor market	37
2.2 Mid-career employees	41
2.3 Part-time workers	42
2.4 Contract employees	46
2.5 Dispatched workers	49
2.6 The direction of the diversification of employment methods	53

3. Transformation of the seniority-based wage system .....	55
3.1 The wage system.....	55
3.2 Emphasis on job pay .....	56
3.3 Seniority-oriented treatment in the light of the aging of workers and the raising of the retirement age .....	61
IV. Factors under the Changes .....	68
1. Advances in information systems and technological innovations ..	68
2. Changes in the occupational structure .....	76
3. Changing attitude to work .....	82
V. Future Direction of Japanese Employment Practices .....	93
1. Diversified options for occupation.....	93
2. Towards an affluent aging society .....	97
3. The coexistence (symbiosis) of companies and individuals .....	102