

CONTENTS

About the Author	x
Preface	xi
Notes on this second edition	xiii
Chapters of this second edition	xiv
Acknowledgements	xviii
Permissions	xix
1 BEGINNINGS: CONCEPTUALISING DISABILITY IN A GLOBAL WORLD	1
Disability as a global phenomenon	1
The politics of disability	3
Four perspectives on disability	5
The disability studies matrix	11
The social model: disability as a social barriers concern	11
The minority model: disability as a civil rights concern	13
The cultural model: disability as a mark of culture	13
The relational model: disability as an interaction between impairment and the environment	16
Inside and outside of Anglo-Nordic/North American orthodoxies	17
Conclusion	20
Self-reflective questions	20
Group discussion questions	21
Further reading	21
2 POLITICS: KEY DEBATES AND CONTESTATIONS IN DISABILITY STUDIES	27
Research approaches and ownership in disability studies	27
Who owns disability studies research?	28
How important is social theory in disability studies research?	30

Which paradigms, priorities and methodologies should researchers adopt?	31
Do you have to be disabled to do disability studies research?	32
Disability studies research, representation and impairment	34
Is impairment real?	34
How are impairment and culture related?	35
What are impairment effects?	36
What about people who do not see themselves as disabled?	37
Conclusions	40
Self-reflective questions	40
Group discussion questions	40
Further reading	41
3 DIFFERENCE: DISABILITY, GENDER, RACE, SEXUALITY AND SOCIAL CLASS	44
Disability and diversity	44
Feminism and gender	45
Race and postcolonial theory	47
Sex, queer and crip theory	50
Social class and poverty	53
Conclusion: capturing diversity through critical ableist studies	56
Self-reflective questions	57
Group discussion questions	58
Further reading	58
4 SOCIETY: TOWARDS A SOCIOLOGY OF DISABILITY	63
Knowledge and knowing	63
Mapping sociological theories	64
Subjectivity and objectivity	64
Radical change (conflict) and regulation (consensus)	66
Four sociologies of disability	67
Functionalism and deficient individuals	68
Interpretivism and the myth of 'mental retardation'	68
Radical humanism and the cultural politics of disability	72
Radical structuralism and the materialist social model	75
Towards a postconventional sociology	77
Conclusions	78
Self-reflective questions	79
Group discussion questions	79
Further reading	79

5 INDIVIDUALS: THE PSYCHOLOGICAL MANUFACTURE OF THE DISABLED INDIVIDUAL	84
The psychological manufacture of the individual	84
The average individual	87
The self-contained individual	88
The cognitive individual	90
The solitary individual	91
The developing individual	92
The normal individual	93
The psychologised individual	93
The making of the able individual	94
Unpacking the desired individual	94
Internalising ableism	96
Conclusions	98
Self-reflective questions	99
Group discussion questions	99
Further reading	100
6 SUBJECTIVITY: FINDING CRITICAL PSYCHOLOGIES OF DISABILITY	103
The critical psychological subject	103
The psycho-emotional subject	106
Homo sacer	109
Emotional labour and demanding publics	110
The psychoanalytic subject	111
Splitting	113
Fear and loathing	115
Fantasy, confession and fetish	116
The culturally constituted subject	118
Conclusions	119
Self-reflective questions	120
Group discussion questions	120
Further reading	120
7 DISCOURSE: EXPOSING THE CONSTITUTION OF DIS/ABILITY AND IMPAIRMENT	125
Introducing disability and dis/ability	125
Discourse and dis/ability	126
Discourse analysing impairment	131
Realism versus relativism: but what about biology?	134

Conclusions: in defence of discourse	138
Self-reflective questions	141
Group discussion questions	141
Further reading	141
8 COMMUNITY: A DISHUMAN ANALYSIS OF LIFE, LABOUR AND ACTIVISM	146
Community	146
A DisHuman manifesto	148
A community research project and four DisHuman responses	150
(i) DisHuman relationships	151
(ii) DisHuman living	153
(iii) DisHuman labour	154
(iv) DisHuman activism	154
Conclusions	163
Self-reflective questions	166
Group discussion questions	167
Further reading	167
9 EDUCATION: CHALLENGING NEOLIBERAL-ABLEIST EDUCATION THROUGH CRITICAL PEDAGOGY	170
Introducing inclusive education	170
What is inclusion (and what about special education)?	171
Enforcing inclusion	173
Neoliberal-able education	174
New disabilities, new abilities	175
Inclusion into what?	178
Challenging neoliberal-able education: critical pedagogy	178
Transforming the meaning of education	179
Change school culture	180
Broaden curricula	181
Revise the teacher–learner relationship	182
Promote conscientisation	183
Conclusions	184
Self-reflective questions	185
Group discussion questions	185
Further reading	186

10 FUTURES: FOUR APPROACHES AND THREE KEY THEMES OF CRITICAL DISABILITY STUDIES	191
What is critical disability studies?	191
Four emerging critical disability studies approaches	192
Crip studies and critical studies of ableism	192
Global South disability studies and dis/ability studies	197
Three key themes for critical disability studies	201
1 The question of the human	201
2 Bodies that matter	204
3 The global biopolitics of dis/ability	206
Conclusions	208
Self-reflective questions	209
Group discussion questions	210
Further reading	210
References	214
Index	265