

Boys' Love, Cosplay, and Androgynous Idols

Queer Fan Cultures in Mainland China,
Hong Kong, and Taiwan

Edited by Maud Lavin, Ling Yang, and Jing Jamie Zhao

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Note on Romanization and Chinese and Japanese Names	x
Introduction	xi
Jing Jamie Zhao, Ling Yang, and Maud Lavin
I. Mainland China
1. Chinese Danmei Fandom and Cultural Globalization from Below Ling Yang and Yanrui Xu	3
2. Cosplay, Cuteness, and Weiniang : The Queered Ke'ai of Male Cosplayers as "Fake Girls" Shih-chen Chao	20
3. "The World of Grand Union": Engendering Trans/nationalism via Boys' Love in Online Chinese Hetalia Fandom Ling Yang	45
4. Queering the Post- L Word Shane in the "Garden of Eden": Chinese Fans' Gossip about Katherine Moennig Jing Jamie Zhao	63
5. From Online BL Fandom to the CCTV Spring Festival Gala : The Transforming Power of Online Carnival Shuyan Zhou	91
6. Dongfang Bubai, Online Fandom, and the Gender Politics of a Legendary Queer Icon in Post-Mao China Egret Lulu Zhou	111
II. Hong Kong
7. Desiring Queer, Negotiating Normal: Denise Ho (HOCC) Fandom before and after the Coming-Out Eva Cheuk Yin Li	131

8.	Hong Kong–Based Fans of Mainland Idol Li Yuchun: Elective Belonging, Gender Ambiguity, and Rooted Cosmopolitanism Maud Lavin	157
III. Taiwan
9.	Exploring the Significance of “Japaneseness”: A Case Study of Fujoshi ’s BL Fantasies in Taiwan Weijung Chang	179
10.	Girls Who Love Boys’ Love: BL as Goods to Think with in Taiwan (with a Revised and Updated Coda) Fran Martin	195
	Works Cited	221
	Note on Contributors	246
	Index	249