

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
1 Introduction: The EFL-Literature Classroom	1
Implications of ever-younger EFL classrooms	2
Well-crafted versus poorly crafted texts, language and content	7
The literacy spectrum	13
Reading as empowerment	27
Part 1 Visual Literacy in the EFL-Literature Classroom	29
2 Developing the Mind's Eye with Picturebooks	31
The challenge of children's multimodal literary texts	32
Literacy and picturebooks	34
A cumulative progression in the EFL-literature classroom	37
The scope of picturebooks	39
3 Bridging a Curricular Gap with Graphic Novels	74
The contribution of graphic novels in the EFL-literature classroom	75
The emotional homelessness of adolescence and the home/ away/ home story	82
Developing literary skills with lower intermediate learners: Baum and Cavallaro's The Wizard of Oz: The Graphic Novel	96
Part 2 Literary Literacy in the EFL-Literature Classroom	109
4 Postmodern Fairy Tales: Co-constructing Meaning	111
Stepping-stones to co-constructing meaning	113
Gaining confidence as perceptive 'gap' readers with literary texts	130
The literature canon and schema-refreshing discourse	139
The motivational power of excess	141
An exemplar for teacher education: Scieszka and Smith's The True Story of the 3 Little Pigs! By A. Wolf	151

5	The Poetry of Children's Literature and Creative Writing	156
	Children's oral culture: A challenge to the language/literature dichotomy	157
	Language patterning in children's literature: The form/meaning dichotomy	166
6	Children's Plays: Beyond the Oracy/Literacy Dichotomy	188
	Drama processes	189
	Play, plays and performance	192
	Plays for children	195
	Part 3 Critical Cultural Literacy in the EFL-Literature Classroom	207
7	Radical Children's Literature and Engaged Reading	209
	Arguments for engaged reading with children's literature	210
	Global issues and children's literature	225
	FREE? Stories About Human Rights in the EFL-literature classroom	241
8	Harry Potter and Critical Cultural Literacy	254
	Extensive reading with Harry Potter	256
	Intensive reading: The 'English Literature Canon' versus Harry Potter in the EFL-literature classroom	259
	Empowerment of the reader with Harry Potter	261
	Looking at character in Harry Potter	267
	Harry Potter and global issues	273
	Conclusion	293
	Bibliography	299
	References	303
	Index	327