

Contents

List of Illustrations	ix
Note on Primary Sources	x
Abbreviations	xi
Introduction: 'Strange and Unheard of Revolutions'	i
 PART I. 'To Run One's Self Into Danger': Women and the Politics of Opposition in the London Book Trade
Introduction to Part I	25
1. Women in the London Book Trade	33
2. Making, Tracing, and Erasing Seditious Intentions	63
 PART II. 'Telling the King His Faults': Religio-Political Polemicism and Women's Public Expression
Introduction to Part II	121
3. Oral Religio-Political Activism and Textual Production	128
4. Metaphors of Being and Modes of Empowerment	180
 PART III. 'I Take Truth With Me When I Can Get Her': Delarivier Manley and the Reproduction of Political Intelligence
Introduction to Part III	217

5. Delarivier Manley's Public Representations	225
Conclusion: 'The Antidote to these Women's Poison'?	285
Bibliography	302
Index	335