

CONTENTS

List of Figures	vi
List of Tables	vii
Preface	xi
Chapter 1: A Sociolinguistic Study of the Outer Banks
1.0. Introduction	1
1.1. The Outer Banks Dialect	2
1.2. Field Methods	5
1.2.1. Speaker Samples	7
1.2.2. Critical Social Factors	7
1.3. The Ocracoke Study	10
1.4. The Harkers Island Study	12
1.5. Data Analysis	12
1.6. Instrumental Analysis of Vowels	15
1.7. The North Carolina Language and Life Project	16
Chapter 2: The Sociohistorical Context of the Outer Banks
2.0. Introduction	18
2.1. The Origins of Outer Banks English	18
2.2. The Historical Context of Ocracoke	23
2.3. The Historical Context of Harkers Island	28
2.4. Conclusion	30
Chapter 3: A Profile of Outer Banks English
3.0. Introduction	32
3.1. The Lexical Affinity of Outer Banks English	33
3.2. The Phonological Status of Outer Banks English	38
3.2.1. Comparing Outer Banks English to Other American English Dialects	38
3.2.2. The Outer Banks English–British English Connection	40
3.2.3. The Alignment of Outer Banks /aj/ and /aw/	40
3.2.4. Other Pronunciation Comparisons	42
3.3. The Grammatical Status of Outer Banks English	44

3.4. Generational Changes in Outer Banks English	49
3.5. Sex as a Factor in Outer Banks English	51
3.6. Conclusion	54
 Chapter 4: Subject-Verb Concord in Outer Banks English
4.0. Introduction	56
4.1. The Historical Development of the Outer Banks English Subject-Verb Concord System	56
4.1.1. Subject Type in Scots English	57
4.1.2. Verb Type	59
4.2. Subject-Verb Concord Patterns in Ocracoke English	60
4.2.1. Internal Constraints on Variability	62
4.2.2. External Constraints on Variability	65
4.3. Dialect Affinity and Subject-Verb Concord: Outer Banks and Appalachian English	67
4.3.1. Structural Similarities and Differences	68
4.3.2. Comparison of Change and Maintenance	72
4.4. Conclusion	74
 Chapter 5: Weren't Regularization: An Alternative Concord Pattern
5.0. Variation in Finite be	75
5.1. The Patterning of weren't Regularization	78
5.1.1. Variation in Leveling	81
5.1.2. Leveling in Apparent Time	86
5.2. Levels of Explanation	89
5.2.1. Functional Considerations	89
5.2.2. The Interaction of Leveling, Resistance to Leveling, and Remorphologization	92
5.2.3. Phonological Explanations	95
5.2.4. The Sociolinguistic Significance of Leveling to weren't	97
5.3. Conclusion	100
 Chapter 6: The Shifting Status of Outer Banks /aj/
6.0. Introduction	104
6.1. The Variable Patterning of /aj/ in Ocracoke	106
6.2. The Encroachment of Southern [a:]	113

6.3. Explaining Phonetically Implausible Constraint Hierarchies	116
Chapter 7: Mixing Outer Banks and Southern /ɔ/
7.0. Introduction	120
7.1. The Phonetic Status of Traditional /ɔ/	122
7.2. Assessing Outer Banks /ɔ/	129
7.3. Variation and Change in /ɔ/ Production	132
7.4. Conclusion	140
Chapter 8: Isolation within Isolation: An Ethnolinguistic Boundary on the Outer Banks
8.0. Introduction	142
8.1. A Dialect Profile of Muzel Bryant	147
8.1.1. Phonological Comparison	148
8.1.1.1. Word-Final Cluster Reduction	149
8.1.1.2. Postvocalic /r/ Vocalization	151
8.1.1.3. The /aj/ Vowel	152
8.1.1.4. Further Phonological Evidence	155
8.1.2. Morphosyntactic Diversity	157
8.1.2.1. Copula Absence	157
8.1.2.2. Subject-Verb Concord	159
8.1.2.3. Plural Absence	162
8.1.2.4. Further Grammatical Observations	164
8.2. On the Significance of Muzel Bryant's Dialect Alliance	166
Chapter 9: Dialect Awareness and the Community: A Proactive Program
9.0. Social Responsibility and Endangered Dialects	172
9.1. A Dialect Preservation Program	174
9.2. Dialect Awareness in the Schools	176
9.2.1. Illustrative Educational Activity	178
9.3. Venues for Dissemination	183
Appendix: Ocracoke Interview Questionnaire	187
References	197
Index	207