

Contents

An Introduction—Theoretical, Methodological, and Interdisciplinary Reflections	vii
1 Water, Literature, Symbolism, and Epistemology in the Pre-Modern Age: A Pan-European Perspective	1
2 Water and Voyages in the Goliardic Epic Poem of Herzog Ernst : Transformation and Maturation through Travel into the Mysterious Orient	53
3 The Experience with Water in The Voyage of St. Brendan : Spiritual Epistemology in the Western Seas	63
4 Water Worlds in the Lais by Marie de France: The Search for Happiness in a Fluid World	89
5 Hartmann von Aue's Gregorius : The Religious Transformation through Water	105
6 Water Symbolism in Wolfram von Eschenbach's Parzival : The Material and the Spiritual Dimension of Water in a Middle High German Grail Romance	119
7 Mechthild of Magdeburg's Mystical The Flowing Light of the Godhead : Spirituality, Liquidity, and Epistemology in Medieval Mysticism	153
8 The Water Worlds in Boccaccio's Decameron (ca. 1351): Narrative Explorations of Tears, Water in Fountains, Wells, and in the Mediterranean	175

9	Water as Markers of Identity, Space, and Time in the Icelandic Saga Njáls Saga: Travel, War, and Water in the World of Old Norse Literature	199
10	Water Creatures, Wells, the Other Life, Hybridity, and the Aquatic Dimension: The Myth of Melusine in the Prose Romance by Jean d'Arras	215
11	Marguerite de Navarre's Heptaméron and other Problems with Water: Flooding, Voyaging, Sexual Violence, and Refuge	237
	Epilogue	257
	Bibliography	261
	Index	309
	About the Author	311