

Contents

Acknowledgments xi

Introduction 1

chapter one

Slave Narratives and the Problem of Authenticity 13

chapter two

Staged Ethnicities: Laying the Groundwork for Ethnic Impersonator Autobiographies 47

chapter three

Writing American: California Novels of Brown People and White Nationhood 75

chapter four

One Hundred Percent American: How a Slave, a Janitor, and a Former Klansman Escaped Racial Categories by Becoming Indians 111

chapter five

The Immigrant's Answer to Horatio Alger 141

chapter six

Passing As Poor: Class Imposture in Depression America 171

chapter seven

Postwar Blackface: How Middle-Class White Americans Became Authentic through Blackness 203

chapter eight

To Pass Is To Survive: Danny Santiago's
Famous All Over Town 231

Conclusion. Rewriting the Ethnic Autobiography 271

Notes 279 Bibliography 293 Index 305