

Contents

Preface	xv
Acknowledgments	xix
1. What Is Academic Writing?	1
Academic Writing as a Universal Set of Skills	1
Academic Writing vs. General-Purpose Writing	2
The Notion of Genre in Academic Writing	3
Disciplinary Differences in Academic Writing	4
Academic Writing: A Definition	5
Academic Writing as Research	5
Academic Writing as a Dialog	8
The Demands of Graduate Writing	14
Special Problems of Non-English Writers	15
Learning to Write Like an Expert	16
2. Research in Public Policy and Economics	19
What Is Research?	19
Research in Public Policy and Economics	20
Empirical vs. Nonempirical Research	21
Purposes of Empirical Research	22
Exploration	22
Description	23
Explanation	23
Quantitative vs. Qualitative Research	24
Which Approach Is Prevalent in Public Policy Programs?	27
The Rhetoric of Quantitative and Qualitative Research	28
Research Designs in Public Policy and Economics	30
Quantitative Designs	30
Qualitative Designs	33
Combining Quantitative and Qualitative Approaches	37
Examples of Qualitative and Quantitative Approaches	37
Qualitative Approach	37
Quantitative Approach	38
3. Research Topics and Paper Options	41
Possible Topics	41
Narrowing Down a Topic	41

Suggestions for a Good Topic	44
A Good Topic Is Limited	44
A Good Topic Is Researchable and It Is Researchable by You	44
A Good Topic Focuses on a Debatable Issue	45
A Good Topic Allows You to Make an Original Contribution	45
A Good Topic Is Grounded in Theory and Previous Research	46
Common Problems with Topic Selection	46
“The Current Situation...”	46
“What Can Be Done...?”	47
“Research as Advocacy”	47
Research on “My Country”	47
Research Paper Options	48
4. Identifying Literature to Review	51
What Is Academic Literature?	51
Scholarly Literature	51
Scholarly Journals	51
Textbooks and Scholarly Books	53
Doctoral Dissertations	54
Academic Conference Reports	55
Policy Literature	55
Popular Literature	57
Hierarchy of Academic Literature	59
Looking for Relevant Literature: Where to Start	60
The Journal of Economic Literature (JEL)	61
The Journal of Economic Perspectives (JEP)	62
Policy Studies Journal (PSJ)	63
How to Read Literature Reviews	64
Suggestions for Searching for Empirical Literature	66
Where to Look for Literature	66
5. Reading and Analyzing Literature	69
Understanding the Structure and Organization of Research Papers	69
Title	69
Abstract	72
Introduction	74
Body of the Paper	76
Conclusion	79
References	79
Appendices	80
Reading Empirical Studies	80
How Many Studies to Read?	81
Analyzing Empirical Studies	82
Step 1: Determine Relevance	82
Step 2: Assess Basic Quality	82

Step 3: Group Studies into Categories	83
Step 4: Identify Main Arguments	83
Two Types of Argument	84
Step 5: Assess the Validity of Arguments	86
Common Flaws in Empirical Studies	87
6. Research Questions, Hypotheses, and Purpose Statements	93
What Is a Research Question?	93
Where Do Research Questions Come from?	93
Do All Studies Have a Research Question?	95
Closed-Ended vs. Open-Ended Questions	95
Empirical vs. Normative Questions	96
Other Nonempirical Questions	97
Research Questions in a Paper	99
Formulating Empirical Questions	100
Quantitative Questions	100
Qualitative Questions	102
Characteristics of a Good Research Question	103
It Asks about Something that Is Currently Not Known	103
It Is Answerable through Empirical Research	103
It Is Sufficiently Limited	103
It Is Theoretically Motivated	103
It Is Significant for Theory or Policy Practice	104
Hypotheses	104
What Is a Hypothesis?	104
Directional and Nondirectional Hypotheses	105
Alternative and Null Hypotheses	108
How to State a Hypothesis	108
How to Introduce a Hypothesis in a Paper	109
Where to Put a Hypothesis in a Paper	110
Hypotheses in a Qualitative Paper	110
Purpose Statements	110
Common Patterns for a Purpose Statement	112
What Tense to Use for a Purpose Statement	113
Examples of Research Questions	113
Research Question Analysis	117
7. Research Proposals	119
Ways to Develop a Research Project	119
Options for a Quantitative Study	119
Options for a Qualitative Study	121
What if I Just Have a Point to Prove?	124
How to Prepare a Research Proposal	125
Proposal for a Quantitative Study	125

Proposal for a Qualitative Study	125
The Research Proposal: What to Include	126
Statement of the Problem	126
Research Question(s)	126
Methodology	128
References or Bibliography	128
Common Problems	128
Title	128
Statement of the Problem	129
Research Questions	130
Methodology	131
References and Citations	131
Making and Supporting Claims in a Proposal	131
Sample Proposals	132
Am I Ready to Write a Proposal?	142
8. Structure of a Research Paper	145
Common Structure of a Research Paper	145
Conceptual Parts of an Empirical Paper	146
Research Background	146
Methodology	147
Results and Main Arguments	148
Sections in an Empirical Paper: Examples	148
9. Justifying a Study: The Introduction	161
Problem and Its Importance	163
Using Statistics to Demonstrate Importance	166
How Much Background to Include?	167
Research Gap	169
Lack or Scarcity of Research	169
Controversies	171
Limitations in Existing Scholarship	172
Justifying Qualitative Research	174
Common Phrases Used to Describe a Research Gap	175
Importance of Filling the Gap	176
Contribution of the Study	176
Common Phrases Used to Describe a Study's Contribution	178
10. Theory and Theoretical Frameworks	181
What Is Theory?	181
Components of a Theory	182
Theory across Disciplines	183
Role of Theory in Research	185
Where Should My Theory Come from?	187
Theories vs. Models in Economics	188

Placement of Theory in a Paper	189
Describing Theory in a Paper	190
Narrative Descriptions	191
Visual Models	205
11. Situating a Study: The Literature Review	207
Suggestions for Using the Literature	208
Use (Mostly) Disciplinary Literature	208
Prefer Empirical Literature to Nonempirical	209
Consider if You Need a Separate Section for the Literature	210
Support All Claims that Are Not Based on Your Own Findings	210
Evaluate Rather than Merely Describe	212
Organizing the Literature to Make a Point	213
Statements about the Overall State of the Field	213
Statements about Most Relevant Studies	215
Statements about Other Authors' Arguments or Theoretical Positions	217
Common Problems	220
12. Literature Review: Models and Examples	223
Annotated Extracts from Published Studies	224
Annotated Literature Review from a Student Paper	231
Model Literature Reviews from Student Papers	233
13. Data and Methodology	241
Research Question and Methodology	241
The Ideal vs. the Real Methodology	242
Methodology Section in a Paper	242
Concepts and Measures	243
Data	248
What Are Data?	248
Data in a Quantitative vs. Qualitative Study	248
Primary vs. Secondary Data	249
Data Collection Methods	249
Sampling	250
How Many Observations?	250
Types of Data	251
Data Limitations and Transformations	251
Sources of Secondary Data	252
Describing Data in a Study	252
Quantitative vs. Qualitative Data Analysis	258
Describing a Quantitative Methodology	260
Conceptual vs. Empirical Models	260
Model Specification	261
Variable Specification	263
Estimation Strategy	265
Mathematical Writing: Basic Principles	266

Use of Statistics	266
Mathematical Expressions	266
Notation	267
Describing a Qualitative Methodology	269
14. Results, Discussion, and Conclusion	271
Results in an Empirical Study	271
Where to Describe Results?	272
Results in a Quantitative Study	272
Which Results to Report and in How Much Detail?	273
Results of Multiple Regression Analysis (MRA)	276
How to Report Results in a Quantitative Study	277
Reports of Quantitative Results: Examples	280
How to Report Results in a Qualitative Study	282
How to Discuss Results	287
Explain and Evaluate	287
Comment	290
Draw Implications	292
Address Limitations	294
Writing a Conclusion	295
Using Visuals: Tables and Figures	296
Hedging in Public Policy and Economic Writing	297
How to Qualify Claims	300
15. Data, Methodology, Results, and Discussion: Models and Examples	301
Describing Data and Measures	302
Describing Methodology	304
Describing Results	315
16. Writing Skills	327
Using and Citing Sources	327
Citing Sources	328
What Requires a Citation	330
What Does Not Require a Citation	331
Citing Information from Sources You Have Not Seen	331
Reporting Verbs and Verb Tenses	333
Academic Style for References and Citations	336
Quoting and Summarizing	337
How to Quote	338
General Principles	338
Within-Sentence Quotations	338
Block Quotations	338
Three Ways to Incorporate a Quotation in the Text	339

How to Summarize	340
Paragraph Writing	343
Tips for Writing a Good Paragraph	344
Style, Grammar, and Expression	344
Punctuation	347
Common Collocations	348
Multiple-Word Prepositions	348
Verb + Preposition	348
Adjective + Preposition	348
Appendix A: Citation Guides	349
Appendix B: Model Papers	361
Appendix C: Data Sources	409
Appendix D: Journals in Economics and Public Policy	415
Corpus Details	431
References	433
Index	445