

Contents

Preface	ix
Acknowledgements	xiii
List of symbols	xv
1 A meaningful approach
1.1 How to use this book	1
1.2 Grammar and meaning	2
1.3 Linguistic choice	3
1.4 Language in use	4
1.5 The study of texts	5
1.6 The notion of rank	7
1.7 Functions and metafunctions	9
Summary	12
Further study	13
Exercises	14
2 Labels
2.1 Music, mathematics, medicine and motor-vehicle maintenance	16
2.2 A political parable	16
2.3 Word classes	18
2.4 Subjects	28
2.5 Groups	30
2.6 Three ways of looking at a clause	32
Summary	34
Further study	34
Exercises	35
3 Structure of the clause
3.1 Subject revisited	38
3.2 Finites and Predicators	43

3.3 Complements	48
3.4 Adjuncts	52
3.5 Sample analysis	58
Summary	59
Further study	60
Exercises	62
4 Information structure and thematic structure
4.1 Organizing ideas	64
4.2 Information structure: Given and New information	65
4.3 Thematic structure: Theme and Rheme	71
4.4 The interaction of information structure and thematic structure	79
Summary	81
Further study	81
Exercises	82
5 Grammar and text
5.1 Text and texture	84
5.2 The textual component of the grammar	85
5.3 Thematic progression	88
5.4 Cohesive ties	93
Summary	101
Further study	101
Exercises	103
6 Process and participant
6.1 Meanings: the clause as representation	106
6.2 Processes	108
6.3 Material process	110
6.4 Mental process	116
6.5 Relational process	120
6.6 Verbal process	122
6.7 Other processes	125
6.8 Grammatical metaphor	126
6.9 Circumstance	131
Summary	132
Further study	133
Exercises	134
7 Structure of the nominal group
7.1 Head and Modifier revisited	138
7.2 Logical and experiential metafunctions	140
7.3 Postmodifier/Qualifier versus Adjunct	144

7.4	Embedding	145
7.5	Nominal group complexes	146
7.6	Other kinds of group complex	148
	Summary	149
	Further study	149
	Exercises	151
8	Embedded clauses
8.1	Embedded clause as Postmodifier/Qualifier	154
8.2	Multiple embedding of clauses	162
8.3	Embedded clause as Subject or Complement	164
8.4	Postposed clause	166
8.5	Other embedded clauses	168
	Summary	169
	Further study	170
	Exercises	170
9	Clause complexes: expansion
9.1	Ways of combining clauses	172
9.2	'Equal' clauses	172
9.3	Dependent clauses	176
9.4	More complicated complexes	186
	Summary	188
	Further study	189
	Exercises	189
10	Clause complexes: projection
10.1	Projection	193
10.2	Paratactic projection	193
10.3	Hypotactic projection	195
10.4	Non-finite projections	198
10.5	Grammatical metaphor: embedding versus dependency	199
10.6	Even more complicated complexes	202
10.7	Ambiguous structures	205
	Summary	205
	Further study	206
	Exercises	207
11	Applications of functional analysis
11.1	Explanations and theories	212
11.2	Writing in science and technology	213
11.3	Valued texts	219
11.4	Language development and language teaching	221

11.5 Language and literature: stylistic analysis	226
11.6 Language and power	228
11.7 On applications and SFL theory	230
Summary	231
Further study	232
12 Historical perspectives
12.1 Origins	234
12.2 Before the twentieth century	234
12.3 De Saussure	236
12.4 Linguistics in America	238
12.5 Whorf	241
12.6 The Prague School	243
12.7 Malinowski and Firth	244
12.8 Corpus linguistics	246
12.9 Some functional alternatives	248
12.10 Systemic Functional ‘grammars’	250
Summary	251
Further study	251
Answer key	254
Glossary	279
References	291
Index of authors	305
Subject index	309