

CONTENTS

1	Introduction	1
2	‘The Yawns of Lady Bertram’: Sleep, Subjectivity and Sociability in Jane Austen	37
3	‘Snoring for the Million’: Dickens the Sleep-watcher	75
4	From Bildungsroman to Schlafroman: Goncharov’s Oblomov	109
5	Proust and the Sleep of Others	141
6	‘Observed, Measured, Contained’: Contemporary Fiction and the Science of Sleep	179
7	Conclusion: ‘A World without a Lullaby’?	209
Index		219