

Popular Music and the Postcolonial

Edited by
Oliver Lovesey

Contents

Citation Information	vi
Notes on Contributors	viii
Introduction: Decolonizing the Ear: Introduction to “Popular Music and the Postcolonial” Oliver Lovesey	1
1 Song for a King’s Exile: Royalism and Popular Music in Postcolonial Uganda David Pier	5
2 Popular Songs and Resistance: Ngũgĩ wa Thiong’o’s Maitũ Njugĩra Gĩchĩngĩri Ndĩgĩrĩgĩ	22
3 Popular Music and the Young Postcolonial State of Cameroon, 1960–1980 Anja Brunner	37
4 Edward Said on Popular Music Wouter Capitain	49
5 Occitan Music Revitalization as Radical Cultural Activism: From Postcolonial Regionalism to Altermondialisation Virginie Magnat	61
6 Irish Republican Music and (Post)colonial Schizophrenia Stephen R. Millar	75
7 Rapping Postcoloniality: Akala’s “The Thieves Banquet” and Neocolonial Critique Justin A. Williams	89
8 Decolonizing Korean Popular Music: The “Japanese Color” Dispute over Trot Seung-Ah Lee	102
Index	111