Managing Complex Networks

Strategies for the Public Sector

edited by
Walter J.M. Kickert, Erik-Hans Klijn
and Joop F.M. Koppenjan

SAGE Publications
London • Thousand Oaks • New Delhi

Contents

Contributors' Notes viii

Foreword by Professor R.A.W. Rhodes xi

Preface xvii

1 Introduction: A Management Perspective on Policy Networks 1
W.J.M. Kickert, E.-H. Klijn and J.F.M. Koppenjan

1.1 Introduction 1
1.2 Governance: The Debate on the Limits of Government 3
1.3 The Concept of the 'Policy Network' 6
1.4 The Network Approach to Governance 7
1.5 Managing Policy Networks: A Preliminary Exploration 10
1.6 The Focus of the Book 11

Part I Policy Networks and Network Management: A State of the Art

2 Policy Networks: An Overview 14
E.-H. Klijn

2.1 Introduction 14
2.2 Policy Analysis: From Rational Actor to Network 15
2.3 Interorganizational Relations and Networks 19
2.4 Policy Communities, Subsystems and Networks 23
2.5 Characteristics of Policy Networks 28

3 Public Management and Network Management: An Overview 35
W.J.M. Kickert and J.F.M. Koppenjan

3.1 Introduction 35
3.2 Public Management and Governance: Some General Trends 36
3.3 Public Management and Governance in Policy Networks 40
3.4 Network Management 43
3.5 Strategies for Network Management 46
3.6 Conditions for Network Management 53
3.7 Governmental Organizations and Network Management 59
3.8 Conclusion 60

Part II Network Dynamics and Management

4 The Dynamics of Closedness in Networks 62
L. Schaap and M.J.W. van Twist

4.1 Introduction 62
4.2 Some Forms of Closedness from the Literature on Networks 63
4.3 First Clarification for Closedness: Individual Veto Power 66
4.4 Second Clarification for Closedness: Actors' Frames of Reference 67
4.5 Interference between the First and Second Clarification for Closedness 68
4.6 Communication between Frames: The Formation of a Social Reality 69
4.7 Third Clarification for Closedness: Network Culture 71
4.8 Network and Actors 72
4.9 Interference between Network Culture and Frames of Reference 74
4.10 Explanatory Model for Determining Clarifications for Closedness 75
4.11 On Fashionable Interventions and Problems of Network Management 76

5 Managing Perceptions in Networks 79
C.J.A.M. Termeer and J.F.M. Koppenjan

5.1 Introduction 79
5.2 The Role of Perceptions in Interaction Processes: Joint Action and Fixations 80
5.3 Perceptions, Policy Networks and Configurations 81
5.4 Variation and Confrontation as Conditions for Change 84
5.5 Towards a Management of Perceptions 86
5.6 Strategies Aimed at the Social Dimension of Interaction 89
5.7 Strategies Aimed at the Cognitive Dimension 92
5.8 Limits to the Management of Perceptions 96
5.9 Conclusions 97

6 Strategies and Games in Networks 98
E.-H. Klijn and G.R. Teisman

6.1 Introduction 98
6.2 Games as a Metaphor for Processes in Networks 99
6.3 Management Strategies in Networks 105
6.4 Criteria for the Evaluation of Complex Decision Making 113
6.5 Conclusions 117

7 Instruments for Network Management 119
J.A. de Bruijn and E.F. ten Heuvelhof

7.1 Background and Problem Definition 119
7.2 The Tools of Government: Three Families of Instruments 120
7.3 Policy Networks and the Choice and Use of Instruments 122
7.4 Linking Factors for Network Management 125
7.5 Instruments for Network Management 126
7.6 Instrumentalism on the Institutional Level 132
7.7 Concluding Observations 136

8 Managing Implementation Processes in Networks 137
L.J. O'Toole Jr., K.I. Hanf and P.L. Hupe

8.1 Introduction 137
8.2 Concepts 138
8.3 Managing Implementation 140
8.4 Strategies 145
8.5 Conclusions 150

9 Normative Notes: Perspectives on Networks 152
J.A. de Bruijn and A.B. Ringeling

9.1 Introduction: A Fool May Ask More Questions in an Hour . . . 152
9.2 The Special Status of Public Actors 153
9.3 Process Norms and Substantive Norms for Steering 157
9.4 The Structuring of Networks: Plurality of Values 159
9.5 Responsibility, Liability and Control 162
9.6 Normative Risks 165

Part III Conclusion: Strategies for Network Management

10 Managing Networks in the Public Sector: Findings and Reflections 166
W.J.M. Kickert, E.-H. Klijn and J.F.M. Koppenjan

10.1 Introduction 166
10.2 Network Management: Finding a Common Purpose 167
10.3 Strategies for Network Management 168
10.4 Evaluating Network Management 170
10.5 The Role of Public Actors in Networks 177
10.6 Three Perspectives on Networks and Network Management 181
10.7 Conclusions and Perspectives 188

Bibliography 192

Author Index 203

Subject Index 204