

CONTENTS

Abbreviations	vi
Preface	vii
1 INTRODUCTION: A NEW TURN IN THE GERMAN PROBLEM?	I
2 GERMANY AS A UNIFYING AND DIVISIVE FORCE IN INTERNATIONAL POLITICS	6
3 THE WEST AND THE FEDERAL REPUBLIC: IMPLICATIONS OF CHANGE	13
Stability in the Bonn Republic	14
Lifting a taboo: how to face the East	20
Difficulties for Western action	29
4 THE PROBLEM OF THE GERMAN BORDERS	34
The evolution of Germany's border policy	34
Problems of a solution	43
5 PRIORITIES FOR THE WEST: IS REUNIFICATION STILL THE ISSUE?	50
Obstacles and opposition to reunification	51
A digression: Soviet policy on Germany's division	57
Reunification as a common goal: a necessity for the West?	68
6 THE EVOLUTION OF A NEW FOREIGN POLICY FOR THE FEDERAL REPUBLIC	74
The old policy in a changing environment	76
The Berlin Wall and domestic priorities: institutional unity versus humanitarian concerns	80
Ferments of change: Kennedy's policy and Bonn's Ostpolitik	85
The domestic debate and the problem of intra- German relations	90
A European strategy for the German problem: de Gaulle and the evolution of German policy	95

CONTENTS

The crossing of the Rubicon: the beginnings of an intra-German dialogue and the formation of the Great Coalition	100
7 BONN'S NEW POLICY: ITS SHAPE, PROBLEMS, AND PROSPECTS	108
Intra-German relations and the strategy of rapprochement	108
The Federal Republic and the outside world	115
The Berlin problem	120
Discord over policies	123
8 CONCLUSION	129
The interaction of domestic and international politics: the impact of change	129
Two states in one German nation?	132
Bibliography	140
Index	151