

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	vii
I. INTRODUCTION	3
What Is a Small Group?	11
Face-to-face contact—How small?—Goal orientation— Variety of Groups—Formal and informal groups
Plan of the Study	16
II. THE PRIMARY GROUP AND POLITICS	17
The Rediscovery of the Primary Group	17
Pressures to Conform in the Face-to-Face Group	22
The Small Group and Political Behavior	29
The political personality—Training for political participation—Small group roles and political roles— Political attitudes and the small group
The Small Group and the Political System	45
Face-to-face groups in traditional and modern systems—The small group in conflict with the political system—The small group and political stability
Conclusion	60
III. EXPERIMENTS AND THE POLITICAL PROCESS
1: THE CULTURE OF THE LABORATORY	61
The Experimental Method	63
Control—Experiments and surveys
The Culture of the Laboratory	69
Population—The observer effect—The laboratory setting
Conclusion	89

CONTENTS

IV. EXPERIMENTS AND THE POLITICAL PROCESS
2: BRIDGING THE GAP	90
Laboratory Culture and Political Culture: Some Similarities	90
Life-like Experiments	91
Simulating reality in the laboratory—Moving the laboratory into the field
The Uses of Experimental Studies	95
Techniques of observation—Understanding on-going small groups—Understanding larger social systems
Conclusion	109
V. THE CONCEPT OF LEADERSHIP	110
The Political Study of Leadership	113
Leadership as a Group Function	117
Interpersonal influence—Goal orientation—Leadership vs. headship
The Behaviors of Leaders	120
The Origins of Leadership	124
The demands of the task—Generalized leadership—Structural position in the group—Status in the external culture—Personality traits—Motivation to assume a leadership role
Observation and Measurement of Leadership	131
The leader as the most active group member—The leader so designated by the group—Similarity between personal and group opinion—Relationship among the techniques
VI. LEADERSHIP: AFFECTIVE AND INSTRUMENTAL, I	142
Small Group Analysis as a Tool	143
The Dual Leadership Task in Small Groups	144
Equilibrium problem—External relations of the leader

CONTENTS

The Dual Leadership Task in On-Going Systems	150
External relations of the leader—Conflicting expectations
Conflicting Expectations: Their Effect on the Group	155
Leader motivation—Group accomplishment
VII. LEADERSHIP: AFFECTIVE AND INSTRUMENTAL, 2	161
Conflicting Expectations: Their Resolution in Small Groups	161
The two leaders—Activities of the two leaders—Relations between the two leaders
Conflicting Expectations: Their Resolution in On-Going Systems	165
Special characteristics of small group leadership—Legitimate leadership—Role of norms in follower compliance—Role of norms in leader motivation—The process of legitimation
Experimental Groups and On-Going Social Systems Compared	179
Some similarities between the two systems—Leadership role differentiation in on-going systems
Conclusion	183
VIII. LEADERSHIP AND THE NORMS OF THE GROUP	185
The Leader as Conformist	186
Conformity as a key to influence—Why must the leader conform?
The Leader as Deviant	189
The Content of Conformity	192
The several meanings of “group norms”—Multiple normative expectations
Group Change and the Conformist-Innovator Dilemma	198
Non-consensual change—Group norms requiring deviation—Risking the leader’s “acceptance capital”—Changing leaders—The leader’s ability to set the group norms—Projection of responsibility

CONTENTS

IX. THE PARTICIPATION HYPOTHESIS,
1: APPLICATION OF A SMALL GROUP FINDING	206
The Iowa experiments	208
The three leadership climates—Effects on the group— Follow-up studies
Democracy in Small Groups	212
The “tone” of the group—Selecting the leader—The decision-making process—Positive functions of the democratic leader
Strains on Democratic Leadership	217
Enforced democracy—Pseudo-democracy—The “no- conflict” assumption
X. THE PARTICIPATION HYPOTHESIS,
2: THE GENERALITY OF A SMALL GROUP FINDING	226
Why Participation Works	226
Field theoretical explanation—Uniting group and individual goals—Face-to-face decisions
Does Participation Always Work?	232
The skills of the participants—The need for central- ized communications—Satisfaction and productivity— The expectations of the followers
Conclusion	242
XI. A CONCLUDING NOTE	244
Bibliography	251
Index	271