

Contents

Hans Haferkamp: In Memoriam (Shmuel N. Eisenstadt) . . . . .	1
Introduction: Culture and Social Structure in Recent Sociological Analysis (Shmuel N. Eisenstadt). . . . .	5
Part I Social Structure and Culture – A Tenable Differentiation?
1 The Cultural Foundations of Society (Friedrich H. Tenbruck) . . . . .	15
1.1 Culture and Society: About the History of Concepts . . . . .	16
1.2 The Concept of Culture: A Preliminary Review . . . . .	20
1.3 Representative Culture . . . . .	22
1.4 Some Remarks on Weber and Parsons . . . . .	27
1.5 A New Type of Culture: Modern Culture . . . . .	29
1.6 The Culture of Everyday Life . . . . .	31
1.7 About the Significance of Culture for Sociology . . . . .	33
Notes . . . . .	33
2 Structures, Cultures, and Knowledge: A Historical and Comparative Exploration (Richard Münch) . . . . .	37
2.1 Introduction . . . . .	37
2.2 An Intercultural Comparison of the Development of Modern Scientific Knowledge . . . . .	38
2.3 The Development of Modern Scientific Knowledge: A Theoretical Explanation . . . . .	39
2.4 An Intracultural Comparison of the Development of Special Characteristics of Knowledge . . . . .	42
2.4.1 Great Britain: The Scientific Communities, the Enquiry, and the Normative Binding Power of Knowledge . . . . .	42
2.4.2 France: The Salon, the Café, the Essay, and the Expressivity of Knowledge . . . . .	43
2.4.3 Germany: The Private Study, the University Seminar, the Academic “Work”, and the Abstraction of Knowledge . . . . .	44
2.4.4 The United States: The Meeting, the Periodical Article, and Rapidly Changing Knowledge . . . . .	46
2.5 Concluding Remarks . . . . .	47
2.6 Summary . . . . .	47
References . . . . .	48
Appendix (Figures 2.1–2.23) . . . . .	50
3 Symbolic, Institutional, and Social-Structural Differentiation: A Selection- Theoretical Perspective (Bernhard Giesen and Michael Schmid) . . . . .	67
3.1 Introduction . . . . .	67

3.2 Three Views on Culture . . . . . 68
 3.2.1 Culture as Language and Constitution . . . . . 68
 3.2.2 Culture as Value-Oriented and Tradition . . . . . 69
 3.2.3 Culture as Product and Consumption . . . . . 71
 3.3 Institutions and Social Structure . . . . . 74
 3.3.1 Selective Factors for the Reproduction of Modes of Culture 74
 3.3.2 Everyday Action: Life-World and Community . . . . . 75
 3.3.3 Organization: Social Inequality and Social Control . . . . . 76
 3.3.4 Public Situations: Inclusion and Mass Communication . . . . . 78
 Notes . . . . . 82
 References . . . . . 83

Part II Culture and Modernity

1 Sociology and the Crisis of Western Culture (Johannes Weiß) . . . . . 89
 Notes . . . . . 98
 References . . . . . 99
 2 Differentiation and Culture: Sociological Optimism under Scrutiny
 (Hans Haferkamp) . . . . . 101
 2.1 Differentiation and Pattern Maintenance by Culture . . . . . 102
 2.2 Change toward and within Modern Culture . . . . . 108
 2.3 Sociological Optimism . . . . . 119
 References . . . . . 121
 3 The Cognitive Representations of Social Inequality: A Sociological
 Account of the Cultural Basis of Modern Class Society (Klaus Eder) 125
 3.1 The Discourse on Social Inequality . . . . . 125
 3.1.1 Inequality: Social Fact or Interpretative Scheme? . . . . . 125
 3.1.2 The Universality of Vertical Classification . . . . . 125
 3.2 Class Position and Social Inequality . . . . . 128
 3.2.1 Four Forms of Classificatory Struggles . . . . . 128
 3.2.2 The Theoretical Construction of the Concept of Class . . . . . 130
 3.3 Beyond Class-Specific Subcultures . . . . . 133
 3.3.1 A Critique of the “Discourse on Class” . . . . . 133
 3.3.2 The Cultural Reproduction of Class . . . . . 135
 3.3.3 Class-Specific Schemata of Social Experience . . . . . 138
 3.4 A Social Critique of Morality . . . . . 140
 Notes . . . . . 141
 References . . . . . 143
 4 Towards a Sociology of Postmodern Culture (Mike Featherstone) . . . 147
 4.1 Introduction: Postmodernism in Sociology . . . . . 147
 4.2 The Development of Postmodernism within the Cultural and Intellectual Fields . . . . . 155
 4.3 The New Cultural Intermediaries and the Centers of Postmodernism . . . . . 162

4.4 Postmodernism and the Aestheticization of Life ..... 166
 Notes ..... 167
 References ..... 168

Part III Culture and Social Action

1 Choice and Culture: The Behavioral Basis of Cultural Impact on Transactions (Siegwart Lindenberg) ..... 175
 1.1 Introduction ..... 175
 1.2 The Parsons-Shils Solution ..... 176
 1.2.1 The Value Theory of Action ..... 177
 1.2.2 Evaluation of the Parsons-Shils Solution: The Plasticity Paradigm of Choice ..... 178
 1.3 The Scarcity Paradigm of Choice and SEU Theory ..... 180
 1.4 Reason and Rationality: Stinchcombe's Social Agency Theory ... 182
 1.5 Prospect Theory: Kahneman and Tversky's Alternative ..... 183
 1.5.1 Prospect Theory ..... 184
 1.5.2 Some Problems with Prospect Theory ..... 186
 1.6 The Discrimination Model of Probabilistic Choice and Framing . 187
 1.7 Culture and Rational Choice ..... 190
 1.7.1 Social Production Functions ..... 190
 1.7.2 Culture, Social Norms, and the Avoidance of Loss ..... 192
 1.8 Summary and Conclusion ..... 194
 Notes ..... 195
 References ..... 198

2 The Interplay of Culture and Social Structure in the Mind: The Social Actor as a Tangled Decision-Maker (Luciano Gallino) ..... 201
 References ..... 214

3 The Role of the Game between Culture and Social Action (Carlo Mongardini) ..... 217
 Notes ..... 226
 References ..... 227

4 The Cultural Construction of Social Identity: The Case of Scotland (Josef Bleicher) ..... 229
 4.1 Introduction: Social Identity and Nationalism ..... 229
 4.2 Culture, Nation, and the Absence of Political Nationalism ..... 229
 4.3 Culture, Modernity, and Social Identity ..... 230
 4.4 The Construction of Scottishness ..... 231
 4.5 From Cultural to Political Nationalism ..... 234
 4.6 Some Implications ..... 237
 Notes ..... 239
 References ..... 240

Part IV Culture, Ideology, and Science

1 The (Re)Colonization of Science by the Life-World: Problems and Prospects (Ullica Segerstråle) . . . . .	245
1.1 The Problematic Relationship between Science, Culture, and the Life-World . . . . .	245
1.2 Possibilities and Problems of Practical Discourse in Natural Science	247
1.3 Disagreement among Scientific Experts: A Case Study . . . . .	249
1.4 Cognitive Differences among Scientists and the Permeability of Scientific Discourse to Life-World Thinking . . . . .	251
1.5 Strategic Action in Scientific Discourse . . . . .	253
1.6 “Coupled Reasoning” and the Prevention of True Communicative Action . . . . .	255
1.7 The Role of Moral Argumentation for the Cognitive Content of Science and the Short-Circuit of Practical Discourse . . . . .	257
Notes . . . . .	262
References . . . . .	265
2 Subjective Rationality and the Theory of Ideology (Raymond Boudon)	269
References . . . . .	287
3 Sociology and the Professional Culture of Philosophers (Richard Kilminster) . . . . .	289
3.1 Introduction . . . . .	289
3.2 The Culture of Philosophers . . . . .	290
3.3 The Sociological Revolution . . . . .	293
3.4 Sociology and Philosophy Today . . . . .	298
3.5 Conclusion: Philosophy as a Culture of Defense . . . . .	301
Notes . . . . .	307
References . . . . .	310
4 Legislators and Interpreters: Culture as Ideology of Intellectuals (Zygmunt Bauman) . . . . .	313
References . . . . .	331
The Authors . . . . .	333
Index . . . . .	337