

Contents

1	Introduction to the Volume	1
	Tomas Marttila
Part I	Foundations	15
2	Post-foundational Discourse Analysis: Theoretical Premises and Methodological Options	17
	Tomas Marttila
3	Discourse and Heterogeneity	43
	Lasse Thomassen
4	Hegemony Analysis: Theory, Methodology and Research Practice	63
	Martin Nonhoff
5	The Retroductive Cycle: The Research Process in Poststructuralist Discourse Analysis	105
	Jason Glynos and David Howarth

vii

Part II Case Studies: Culture, Politics, Populism	127
6 Eating Power: Food, Culture, and Politics Fabio Parasecoli	129
7 About Dislocations and Invitations: Deepening the Conceptualization of the Discursive-Material Knot Nico Carpentier	155
8 Rhetorical-Performative Analysis of the Urban Symbolic Landscape: Populism in Action Emilia Palonen	179
9 Solidarity in Europe and the Role of Immigration Policies: A Discourse Theoretical Perspective Efharis Mascha	199
10 'The People' and Its Antagonistic Other: The Populist Right-Wing Movement Pegida in Germany Ronald Hartz	223
11 'Culture' in German Media Discourses on Refugees: A Political Geography Perspective Annika Mattissek and Tobias Schopper	245
12 Populism Versus Anti-populism in the Greek Press: Post-Structuralist Discourse Theory Meets Corpus Linguistics Nikos Nikisianis, Thomas Siomos, Yannis Stavrakakis, Titika Dimitroulia, and Grigoris Markou	267

Part III Possibilities of Critique	297
13 Tensions in the Post-Althusserian Project: Descriptive Indeterminacy and Normative Uncertainty Geoff Boucher	299
14 Post-foundationalism and the Possibility of Critique: Comparing Laclau and Mouffe Marius Hildebrand and Astrid Séville	323
15 Post-foundationalism, Systems Theory and the Impossibility of Critique Niels Åkerstrøm Andersen, Erik Højbjerg, and Anders la Cour	343
References	367
Index	399