

CONTENTS

1	Introduction	1
2	“What Nature Itself Demands:” The Development of Maternity Legislation at the End of the Nineteenth Century	25
3	“For the Health of the People:” Public Health and the Compensation of Maternity Leave in the 1910s	61
4	“Protecting Mothers and Children:” The Castbergian Children’s Laws and Maternity Assistance for Single Mothers in the 1910s	101
5	“Getting the Most Money Possible:” Women’s Responses to the Implementation of Maternity Laws, 1916–1930	123
6	“Mothers’ Freedom Is the Key to Women’s Emancipation:” Feminist Efforts to Expand Maternity Legislation in the Interwar Period	163
7	Conclusion	203
	Index	211
		ix