

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Prologue: Computing Kin	1
PART I. Making: Language and Code
1 Intermediation: Textuality and the Regime of Computation	15
2 Speech, Writing, Code: Three Worldviews	39
3 The Dream of Information: Escape and Constraint in the Bodies of Three Fictions	62
PART II. Storing: Print and Etext
4 Translating Media	89
5 Performative Code and Figurative Language: Neal Stephenson's Cryptonomicon	117
6 Flickering Connectivities in Shelley Jackson's Patchwork Girl	143
PART III. Transmitting: Analog and Digital
7 (Un)masking the Agent: Stanislaw Lem's "The Mask"	171
8 Simulating Narratives: What Virtual Creatures Can Teach Us	193
9 Subjective Cosmology and the Regime of Computation: Intermediation in Greg Egan's Fiction	214
Epilogue: Recursion and Emergence	241
Notes	245
Works Cited	265
Index	279