Contents

	Prologue: "Why Don't We Die Daily?"	vii
	Part One
1	The Whole on the Verge of Collapse:
	Physiology's Test	3
2	The Puzzle of Wounds: Shock and the Body
	at War	34
3	The Visible and the Invisible: The Rise and
	Operationalization of Case Studies, 1915–1919	78
	Part Two
4	Brain Injury, Patienthood, and Nervous
	Integration in Sherrington, Goldstein, and
	Head, 1905-1934	TII
5	Physiology Incorporates the Psyche: Digestion,
	Emotions, and Homeostasis in Walter Cannon,
	1898-1932	138
6	The Organism and Its Environment: Integration,
	Interiority, and Individuality around 1930	161
7	Psychoanalysis and Disintegration: W. H. R.
	Rivers's Endangered Self and Sigmund Freud's
	Death Drive	207

409

Index

	Part Three
8	The Political Economy in Bodily Metaphor and the Anthropologies of Integrated Communication	247
9	Vis medicatrix, or the Fragmentation of Medical
	Humanism	292
10	Closure: The Individual	316
	Acknowledgments	323
	Abbreviations and Archives	327
	Notes	33I