

Contents

Acknowledgements	xi
Preface	xv
1 Frameworks of Power: an Overview of the Argument	1
Introduction	1
Hobbes and Machiavelli as precursors of power	5
Power and agency in the 'Community Power Debate'	8
Power and intention	10
Non-decision, mobilization of bias and the two faces of power	11
Power and three dimensions: a radical view	13
Agency and structure in the analysis of power	14
Dominant ideology and disciplinary power	15
Circuits of power	16
Conclusion	20
2 Power: Traditional Roots, Modern Problems	21
Introduction	21
Hobbes	22
Hobbes' myth	25
Hobbes' choice and its conceptual extension	27
Machiavelli: the contrast with Hobbes	29
Metaphors for moderns: Hobbes and Machiavelli	34
Conclusion	36
3 Political Community, Methodological Procedures and the Agency Model	39
Introduction	39
Metaphorical continuities	41
Classical elitism	46
Floyd Hunter and the community power elite	48

Dahl's methodological challenge to contemporary elitism	50
Dahl's critique of the ruling elite model	57
Newton's critique of the pluralist model	59
Conclusion	64

4 The Power of Intention 66

Introduction	66
Some stories about power	67
Elaborating stories	69
Russell, Weber and Wrong: the power of intention	72
Bachrach and Baratz: the two faces of power?	75
Is power something actualized or not?	83
Conclusion	84

5 Lukes' Dimensions and Epistemology 86

Introduction	86
Lukes' three-dimensional model and the centrality of 'interests'	88
Habermas: real interests in ideal speech situations	92
Benton and the 'paradox of emancipation'	95
Lukes' model of power and structure	98
Power, interests and hegemony: Gaventa and Whitt	103
Interests and epistemology	115
Realism, causal powers and objectives	121
Conclusion	127

6 Giddens' Critique of Parsons and the Duality of Structure 129

Introduction	129
Parsons' power	130
Habermas on Parsons on power	133
Giddens on Parsons on power	135
Giddens' duality of structure	138
Conclusion	147

7 Post-structuralism, Sovereign Power and Disciplinary Power 149

Introduction	149
Post-structuralism and Foucault	150
Disciplinary power, bio-power and sovereign power	153
Sovereign power and its conceptual over-extension into dominant ideology	159
Disciplinary power and the dissolution of the sovereign power conception	167

From structural ideology to post-structuralist hegemony in Laclau and Mouffe	178
Radical conceptions of power compared	182
Conclusion	184
8 Circuits of Power: a Framework for Analysis	187
Introduction	187
Power in organizations	189
Mechanisms of power: disciplinary practices of surveillance	190
Organization and agency	193
Strategic agency	198
The reformation of power: the contributions of Callon, Latour and colleagues	202
Power and resistance	207
Rules and power	209
Episodic agency power: the 'normal power' of social science	211
Organizational outflanking of resistance: Mann's contribution	218
Social integration and system integration: dispositional and facilitative power respectively	223
Conclusion	239
9 Constituting Circuits of Power in Modernity	241
Introduction	241
Urbanism as a feudal nodal point	242
Centralized states and the emergence of 'public' administration	251
Markets and states and power	256
The modern constitutional nation state	265
Conclusion	271
Post-modern Postscript	273
References	276
Index	291