

Contents

| | |
|--|-----------|
| List of illustrations..... | iv |
| Acknowledgements..... | v |
| Preface by Neil Christie | vii |
| Introduction..... | ix |
| Part I. Hispania (AD 400–711). An historical, archaeological and geographical background | 1 |
| 1. The Iberian Peninsula: a land of multiple landscapes?..... | 2 |
| 2. The last decades of the Western Roman Empire and the processes of disengagement | 13 |
| Part II. Landscapes without strategy? | 33 |
| 3. Building the urban picture in late antique Hispania | 34 |
| 4. Far from the ancient villae : new forms of habitat in rural contexts..... | 59 |
| Part III. Peopling the landscape..... | 81 |
| 5. Identifying post-classical populations in the archaeological record..... | 82 |
| 6. Christian leaders? Impacts on town, country and people..... | 108 |
| 7. Ethnic landscapes? Between natives and incomers..... | 130 |
| 8. Conclusion. Landscapes of power and the new social organization of early medieval Hispania | 150 |
| Bibliography..... | 157 |