

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	xi
List of Contributors	xiii

1. Introduction 1
Mary Hayes and Allison Burkette

PART ONE: Reflections on Teaching the History of the English Language

2. German, Handwriting, and Other Things I Learned to Keep in Mind When Teaching the History of English 13
John McWhorter
3. Restoring Rhythm: An Auditory Imagination of the History of English 21
Thomas Cable
4. Teaching the History of English: A South African Perspective 29
Rajend Mesthrie
5. How Is HEL Relevant to Me? 41
Sonja L. Lanehart

PART TWO: The Value of Teaching the History of English: Rethinking Curricula

6. Philology, Theory, and Critical Thinking Through the History of the English Language 59
Matthew Giancarlo
7. The History of the English Language and the Medievalist 71
Seth Lerer
8. English and I: Finding the History of the English Language in the Class 81
Michael R. Dressman

PART THREE: Research Paradigms and Pedagogical Practices

9. Historical Pragmatics in the Teaching of the History of English 93
Leslie K. Arnovick
10. Using Principles of Construction Grammar in the History of English Classroom 107
Graeme Trousdale

11. Addressing “Emergence” in a HEL Classroom 117
William A. Kretzschmar, Jr.
12. Discovering the Past for Yourself: Corpora, Data-Driven Learning, and the History of English 141
Jukka Tyrkkö
13. Word Classes in the History of English 157
David Denison
14. Dictionaries and the History of English 173
Michael Adams

PART FOUR: Centuries in a Semester: HEL’s Chronological Conventions

15. English Is an Indo-European Language: Linguistic Prehistory in the History of English Classroom 187
Timothy J. Pulju
16. Serving Time in “HELL”: Diachronic Exercises for Literature Students 195
Mary Hayes
17. What Has Beowulf to Do with English? (Let’s Ask Lady Philology!) 211
Haruko Momma
18. Starting from Now: Teaching the Recent History of English 223
Joan Beal

PART FIVE: Including “Englishes” in the History of English

19. From Old English to World Englishes 237
Benjamin A. Saltzman
20. An Ecological Account of the Emergence and Evolution of English 253
Salikoko S. Mufwene
21. Researching World Englishes in HEL Courses: Neologisms, Newspapers, and Novels 265
Carol Percy
22. Situating World Englishes into a History of English Course 273
Rakesh M. Bhatt
23. Incorporating American English into the History of English 285
Allison Burkette
24. Teaching Diversity and Change in the History of English 305
Rob Penhallurick
25. Our Subject Is Each Other: Teaching HEL to ESL, EFL, and Non-Standard English Speakers 313
Matthew Sergi

PART SIX: Using Media and Performance in the History of English Classroom

26. Approaching the History of English Through Material Culture 327
Jonathan Davis-Secord
27. Teaching Original Pronunciation 335
David Crystal

28. Engaging Multimedia in the HEL Classroom	345
Natalie Gerber
29. Teaching the History of English Online: Open Education and Student Engagement	357
Philip Seargeant
Appendix: Resources for Teaching	365
Compiled and annotated by Mary Hayes and Allison Burkette
Notes	373
Bibliography	421
Index	451