

CONTENTS

|          |  |     |
|----------|--|-----|
| 1 | An Introduction   | 1   |
| 1.1      | Why This Feminist Reads Gadamer                             | 4   |
| 1.2      | Situating My Work on Christine and Irigaray                 | 18  |
|          | References  | 25  |
| 2 | Changing the Story: Christine's Construction of Difference  | 27  |
| 2.1      | Changing Bodies   | 32  |
| 2.2      | Translating Stories   | 41  |
| 2.3      | Compilation, Commentary, and Construction                   | 48  |
| 2.4      | Women of Intellect and Invention                            | 59  |
| 2.5      | Invention of Integumenta: The Strange Case of Semiramis     | 68  |
| 2.6      | Aristotle and Nature, Naturally                             | 84  |
|          | References  | 90  |
| 3 | This is Not the Same: Irigaray and Difference Through Story | 95  |
| 3.1      | Imagining Elemental Knowledge                               | 98  |
| 3.2      | Male-Order Stories  | 107 |
| 3.3      | Generating Worlds by Answering "What Ifs...?"               | 121 |
| 3.4      | Divinely Different Sexual Relations                         | 124 |
| 3.5      | It Takes (More Than!) Two                                   | 130 |
|          | References  | 137 |

|          |   |     |
|----------|---|-----|
| 4 | Reading Stories into Action: Christine on Memory, Politics, and Learning             | 139 |
| 4.1      | Christine, Boethius, and Dante: Philosophy and Stories                               | 139 |
| 4.2      | France's Story: Libera and the Sabine Women  | 158 |
| 4.3      | What the Imagination Tells   | 168 |
| 4.4      | Presenting One's Memory and the Reading of Integumental Stories                      | 175 |
|          | References   | 182 |
| 5 | Changing the Story: Tradition, Imagination, and the Interpretive Work of Possibility | 187 |
| 5.1      | Comparing Natures  | 191 |
| 5.2      | Social Relations   | 195 |
| 5.3      | Gadamer and the Movement of Tradition  | 201 |
| 5.4      | Transformative Art   | 203 |
| 5.5      | Tools for Reading and Building   | 211 |
| 5.6      | Poetic Possibilities   | 214 |
|          | References   | 222 |
|          | Epilogue: A Tale of Seeds and Fruit  | 225 |
|          | Bibliography   | 239 |
|          | Index  | 251 |