

Contents

chapter I	7
Organizations as Systems
The Basic Models
The Artificial System
The Owner
Control
Optimization
Flexibility and Cooperation
Decentralization
Expansiveness
Prescriptive Nature
Control of Information
Culture-bound Nature
Expansive Motivation
Zero-redundancy
Recapitulation
Natural Systems
Functions for Individual Survival
Functions for the Organization
System Maintenance
Functions of System Ignorance
Applications
chapter II	29
The Development of Modern Bureaucracy
Evolution
The Normative Theory of Bureaucracy
Normative Unity
Hierarchical Authority
Nonhierarchical Authority

Staff-Line Mythology
Legislative Power

Technology and Bureaucracy

Specialization and Centralization
Technology, Rationality, and Control
Technology and Departmentalization

Informal Organization

Group Identification
Modern Friendship Roles
Multiple Group Membership

Complex Organization Dynamics

chapter III

59

Decision Theory, Pure and Applied

A Simple Model of Decision Making

Means—Ends

Ordering Values

Uncertainty

Norms and Behavior: Discrepancies

Incrementalism

Comprehensive Decision Making

Some Findings

The Irony of Public Administration

chapter IV

77

Bureaucracy and Innovative Action

What is Innovation?

Hidden Values of Change

Creativity

Bureaucratic Structure and Innovation

Normative Unity

Rationality

Cost Overruns

Hierarchy

Administrative Responsibility

Specialization

The Bureaucratic Reward System

Structural Inflexibility

Informal organization

Problems of Organizational Evaluation

A Practical Example:

New Product Innovation

Summary

chapter V

109

Bureaucracy and Compassion

Modern Administrative Mores

Normative Unity

Administrative Neutrality

Categorical Action

Specialization

Compassion and the

Organization Economy

Compassion and the

Reward/Penalty System

Compassion and the

Bureaucratic Gimmick

Index

133