

Contents

List of Illustrations	xxi
Sources of Chapters	xxv

Introduction: 'A Mirror does not develop...': The History of Classical Scholarship as Reception Constanze Güthenke	1
--	---

Part I. Scholarship and Institutions

1. Purity in Danger: The Contextual Life of Savants	13
2. Curriculum and Style in the Collegiate University: Classics in Nineteenth-Century Oxbridge	31
3. Thomas Gaisford: Legion, Legend, Lexicographer	53
4. The Rise and Fall of Porsoniasm	82
5. Renegotiating Classics: The Politics of Curricular Reform in Late Victorian Cambridge	108

Part II. Scholarship and Publishing

6. Politics, Culture, and Scholarship: Classics in the Quarterly Review 1809–24	127
7. From one Museum to Another: The Museum Criticum (1813–26) and the Philological Museum (1831–3)	146
8. The Classical Review and its Precursors	171
9. Sir William Smith and his Dictionaries: A Study in Scarlet and Black	187
10. Jebb's Sophocles: An Edition and its Maker	207
11. Promoting and Defending: Reflections on the History of the Hellenic Society (1879) and the Classical Association (1903)	228
12. Scholars, Gentlemen, and Schoolboys: The Authority of Latin in Nineteenth- and Twentieth-Century England	243

Part III. Schools and Schoolbooks

13. Paper Wraps Stone: The Beginnings of Educational Lithography	261
14. John Taylor and 'Locke's Classical System'	276

15. Schoolboys and Gentlemen: Classical Pedagogy and Authority in the English Public School	286
16. Edward Adolf Sonnenschein and the Politics of Linguistic Authority in England, 1880–1930	299
17. Primers, Publishing, and Politics: The Classical Textbooks of Benjamin Hall Kennedy	307
18. The Smell of Latin Grammar: Contrary Imaginings in English Classrooms	326
Bibliography	349
Index	373