

Rethinking Existentialism

Jonathan Webber

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

Acknowledgements	xiii
1. What Is Existentialism?	1
1.1 Existence Precedes Essence	2
1.2 Freedom and Sedimentation	4
1.3 Existentialism and the Mind	7
1.4 The Influence of Other People	9
1.5 Existentialism Is A Humanism	11
1.6 Existentialism and Existential Philosophy	14
1.7 Rethinking Existentialism	16
2. Why Meursault is an Outsider	20
2.1 Meursault's Emotional Strangeness	21
2.2 Meursault as a Hero of Absurdity	24
2.3 Meursault's Progress	26
2.4 The Origin of Meursault's Estrangement	29
2.5 A Literary Moral Cogito	32
2.6 Why Camus is not an Existentialist	33
2.7 Human Nature and Political Violence	35
3. Freedom and the Origins of Reasons	39
3.1 Freedom, Reasons, and Projects	40
3.2 The Field of Meaning	42
3.3 The Field of Reasons	45
3.4 The Phenomenology of Reasons	47
3.5 Freedom Without Reasons	50
3.6 Projects as Commitments	52
3.7 Sartre's Progress	54
4. Why Xavière is a Threat to Françoise	57
4.1 A Metaphysical Novel	58
4.2 The Sedimentation of Projects	60
4.3 Why Xavière is a Threat to Françoise	63
4.4 Beauvoir's Critique of Sartre	65
4.5 The Weight of Situation	67
4.6 Why Beauvoir is an Existentialist	70
4.7 The Ambiguity of Influence	73
5. Psychoanalysis and the Existentialist Mind	76
5.1 The Puzzles of Repression and Resistance	77
5.2 In the Shadow of Descartes	79

5.3	Sartre's Critique of Freud	82
5.4	Bad Faith in a Unified Mind	84
5.5	A Psychoanalysis of Radical Freedom	87
5.6	Sedimentation and the Origins of Gender	89
5.7	A Psychoanalysis of Sedimented Projects	91
6.	Why Inez is not in Hell	95
6.1	A Metaphysical Play	96
6.2	An Ambiguous Situation	98
6.3	Why Inez is an Insider	100
6.4	Garcin's Progress	103
6.5	Why Garcin is in Hell	105
6.6	The Sins of Garcin and Estelle	107
6.7	Bad Faith and Other People	109
7.	Sedimentation and the Grounds of Cultural Values	113
7.1	Two Varieties of Existentialism	114
7.2	Cultural Values Without Sedimentation	116
7.3	Bad Faith as the Ground of Cultural Values	118
7.4	The Project of Bad Faith	121
7.5	An Unexplainable Coincidence	123
7.6	Sedimentation in the Formation of Saint Genet	125
7.7	Existence Precedes Sedimentation	128
8.	Black Skin, White Masks	131
8.1	Eclecticism and Theoretical Unity	132
8.2	The Dilemma of White Masks	134
8.3	The Strategy of Negritude	137
8.4	The Inferiority Complex	139
8.5	Black Skin and the Dilemma of White Masks	142
8.6	Why Fanon is an Existentialist	145
8.7	An Existentialist Eclecticism	148
9.	From Absurdity to Authenticity	151
9.1	The Origins of Absurdity	152
9.2	Why Irony is not the Answer	154
9.3	Eudaimonism and the Renunciation of Racial Essence	156
9.4	Eudaimonism and the Threat of Despair	159
9.5	Eudaimonism and the Trouble with Other People	161
9.6	Why Eudaimonism is not the Answer	163
9.7	From Eudaimonism to Existentialist Humanism	166
10.	The Imperative of Authenticity	169
10.1	A Kantian Moral Cogito	170
10.2	From Subjective Ends to Objective Value	173
10.3	A Reconstruction of Beauvoir's Argument	175
10.4	The Commitments of Beauvoir's Argument	178

10.5	The Value of a Potential Means	181
10.6	Why the Argument could not be Shorter	183
10.7	An Existentialist Kantian Ethics	185
11.	The Future of Existentialism	188
11.1	Authenticity and Social Conditioning	189
11.2	Sedimentation as Character Formation	192
11.3	Empirical Psychology and the Philosophy of Mind	194
11.4	Stereotypes and Implicit Bias	197
11.5	Existentialist Psychotherapy	199
11.6	Refining Existentialism	202
11.7	Existentialist Reading and Writing	205
	Bibliography	209
	Index	223