

Contents

Introduction	7
Part I. Genre Mixture
Chapter 1. “All you need is love”: genre mixture in the formulaic romance.....	17
Chapter 2. Popular genres in a mainstream text: Michel Faber’s Under the Skin.....	41
Chapter 3. Generic balance with an ironic twist in Michel Faber’s “The Eyes of the Soul”.....	57
Part II. Adaptation and Intertextuality
Chapter 4. Buliwyf for Beowulf: rewriting the epic in Michael Crichton’s Eaters of the Dead.....	71
Chapter 5. Macbeth in the thriller mode: Jennifer Lee Carrell’s The Shakespeare Curse	85
Chapter 6. Encounter with the Green Knight in Michael Crichton’s Timeline	103
Part III. World Models in Conflict
Chapter 7. Suspense and metaphysics in Ursula Le Guin’s Earthsea cycle	121
Chapter 8. The clash of good and evil in C.S. Lewis’s metaphysical thriller	143

Chapter 9. Myth and history in William Golding's “The Scorpion God”	157
Final Remarks.....	175
Works Cited	179
Index of Authors, Titles, and Genres	193