

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Part 1: What is learning potential?	1
01. Wim J. Nijhof & Loek F.M. Nieuwenhuis, The learning potential of the workplace.	3
02. Andries de Grip, Economic perspectives of workplace learning	15
03. David Ashton , Why ‘Organisational Factors’ generate workplace learning cultures	31
04. Susanne Weber, Intercultural learning in business and human resource education	47
05. Bartram, Dave & Robert Roe, Individual and organisational factors in competence acquisition	71
Part 2: Learning processes at work	97
06. Stephen Billett, Michelle Barker & Ray Smith, Relational interdependence as a means to examine work, learning and the (re) making of work as cultural practices	99
07. David Thornton Moore, Workplace learning and the micro politics of knowledge.	117
08. Lorna Unwin, Alan Felstead Alison Fuller, Nick Jewson, Konstantinos Kakavelakis, Tracey Lee and Peter Butler, Worlds within worlds: the relationship between context and pedagogy in the workplace.	129
09. Cindy L. Poortman & Wim J. Nijhof , Learning processes in caring.	141
Part 3: Interaction between individual and organizational characteristics	161
10. Franck T.L. Blokhuis & Wim J. Nijhof, Evidence based design of workplace learning	163
11. Derk Jan Nijman, Wim J. Nijhof, Ida A. M. Wognum & Bernhard P. Veldkamp, A systemic exploration of the effects of managerial support on transfer of training.	181
12. Patrick Meling & Regina H. Mulder, Conditions for learning motivation in web-based professional training	199
13. Heinz Mandl & Oliver Burg, Acceptance of e-learning at the workplace; the influence of institutional framework.	213

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Part 4: Organisational learning and learning in organizations	225
14. Nick Boreham, Organisational learning as structuration: an analysis of worker-led organisational enquiries in an oil refinery.	227
15. Marianne van Woerkom, The assessment of critically reflective work behaviour in organizations.	241
16. Jan Waalkens, René J. Jorna & Theo Postma, Modelling and measuring the absorptive capacity of medium-sized enterprises	261
17. Aimee Hoeve & Loek Nieuwenhuis: Researching routines; innovative lessons from a consultancy firm.	279
Part 5: Reflections	295
18. Loek Nieuwenhuis & Marianne van Woerkom: New paradigms on workplace learning	297
Index	317