List of Figures and Tables	xiii
Preface	xvii
CHAPTER 1
The Terms "German-Speaking Mathematician," "Forced," and "Voluntary Emigration"	1
CHAPTER 2
The Notion of "Mathematician" Plus Quantitative Figures on Persecution	13
CHAPTER 3
Early Emigration	30
3.1. The Push-Factor	32
3.2. The Pull-Factor	36
3.D. Documents	40
3.D.1. The Economic Troubles in German Science                 as a Stimulus to Emigration	40
3.D.2. National Isolation, Xenophobia, and Anti-Semitism                 as European Phenomena	42
3.D.3. Personal Risks with Early Emigration	45
3.D.4. The Ambiguous Interconnection between Social                 Hierarchies, Traditions at Home, and Internationalization                 in Mathematics	46
3.D.5. The American Interest in Immigration (Pull-Factor)	47
3.D.6. The Start of Economic Problems in America around                 1930 Foreshadowing Later Problems Incurred during                 Forced Emigration	51
3.S. Case Studies	52
3.S.1. The Failed Appointments of C. Carathéodory and                 S. Bochner at Harvard	52
3.S.2. Early Emigration from Austria as Exemplified                 by Karl Menger	53
3.S.3. The Problems of Early Emigration as Exemplified                 by Hermann Weyl	56

CHAPTER 4
Pretexts, Forms, and the Extent of Emigration and Persecution	59
4.1. The Nazi Policy of Expulsion	60
4.2. The Political Position of Mathematicians, Affected and Unaffected by Persecution	66
4.D. Documents	72
4.D.1. The Pseudo-Legalism of the Methods of Expulsion	72
4.D.2. Student Boycotts as a Means of Expelling Unwanted Docents	72
4.D.3. The Racist "German Mathematics" (Deutsche Mathematik) of Ludwig Bieberbach as an Ideology Supportive of the Expulsions	73
4.D.4. Personal Denunciations as Instruments of Expulsion	73
4.D.5. Political Reasons for Emigration beyond Anti-Semitism	77
4.D.6. Cheating Emigrants out of Their Pensions	79
4.D.7. Increasing Restrictions Imposed upon "Non-Aryan" Students	80
4.D.8. Political Position of Emigrants before 1933: German Nationalism, Illusions, and General Lack of Prescience	80
4.D.9. First Reactions by the Victims: Readiness to Compromise and to Justify, Adoption of the Martyr's Role	83
4.D.10. The Partial Identity of Interests between the Regime and the "Unaffected" German Mathematicians	86
4.D.11. Reactions to the Expulsions from Abroad	88
CHAPTER 5
Obstacles to Emigration out of Germany after 1933, Failed Escape, and Death	90
5.D. Documents	92
5.D.1. Obstacles to Emigration from Germany	92
5.D.2. Unsuccessful Attempts at Emigration, Mathematicians Murdered	94
CHAPTER 6
Alternative (Non-American) Host Countries	102
6.D. Documents and Problems Pertaining to the Various—Often Temporary—Host Countries outside of the United States	104
CHAPTER 7
Diminishing Ties with Germany and Self-Image of the Refugees	149
7.D. Documents	152
7.D.1. Concern for the Fate of Relatives Left Behind	152
7.D.2. The Emotional Ties to Germany and to German Mathematics on the Part of the Emigrants	153
7.D.3. Maintenance and Gradual Restriction of the Emigrants' Personal and Scientific Relations to Germany	156

7.D.4. Conflicting Opinions on Mathematicians Remaining in Germany and on Those Who Returned in Spite of Chances Abroad	157
7.D.5. Political Information, Caution, and Self-Censorship in the Contact between Emigrants and Mathematicians Remaining in Germany	160
7.D.6. Condemnation of Former Colleagues' Commitment to the Nazis by Emigrants	162
7.D.7. Self-Selection by Emigrants	165
7.S. Case Studies	167
7.S.1. Richard Courant's Gradual Estrangement from Germany	167
7.S.2. Concern for the Future of German Applied Mathematics and the Young Generation: Richard von Mises and Theodor von Kármán Supporting Walter Tollmien's Return to Germany	171
7.S.3. Controversial Judgments about the Return of an Established Mathematician to Germany: Eberhard Hopf	175
7.S.4. The Lack of Demarcation toward Mathematicians Remaining in Germany: The Example of Gumbel's Only Partially Successful Book Free Science (1938)	176
7.S.5. The Aftereffects of Previous Political Conflicts in Emigration: The Case Rudolf Lüneburg	180
CHAPTER 8
The American Reaction to Immigration: Help and Xenophobia	186
8.1. General Trends in American Immigration Policies	186
8.2. Consequences for the Immigration of Scholars	189
8.3. The Relief Organizations, Particularly in the United States	192
8.D. Documents	204
8.D.1. Competition on the American Job Market and Attempts to Keep the Immigrants away from America	204
8.D.2. "Selection" of Immigrants to Be Promoted and Bureaucratic Obstacles on the Part of the Americans	205
8.D.3. Special Problems for Female Immigrants	207
8.D.4. Political Mistrust on the American Side	207
8.D.5. The Priority of Private Foundations and Pure Research Institutions in Helping the Immigrants	208
8.D.6. The Restricted Scope and Possibilities Available to the German Mathematicians' Relief Fund	209
8.D.7. Further Motives for Xenophobia: Mental Borders, Anti-Semitism, Differences in the Science Systems, Professional Jealousy	210
8.D.8. Decline of Xenophobia in Connection with Political Events on the Eve of World War II	213

8.S. Case Studies	214
8.S.1. The Case of the Female Emigrant Emmy Noether	214
8.S.2. A Case of the Exploitation of Immigrants by an Engineer at Cornell (M. G. Malti)	217
8.S.3 Five Case Studies about Academic Anti-Semitism in the USA	218
8.S.3.1. Consideration of anti-Semitism in the policies of the relief organizations	218
8.S.3.2. Examples of American nationalist and racist propaganda aimed at immigrants	219
8.S.3.3. Problems in relationships between assimilated (in particular baptized) and Orthodox Jews in America	219
8.S.3.4. The anti-Semitism of George David Birkhoff	223
8.S.3.5. Declining academic anti-Semitism in the USA after 1945	228
CHAPTER 9
Acculturation, Political Adaptation, and the American Entrance into the War	230
9.1. General Problems of Acculturation	231
9.2. Political Adaptation	233
9.3. Problems of Adaptation in Teaching and Research	235
9.4. Age-Related Problems and Pensions	236
9.5. The Influence of War Conditions	236
9.D. Documents	237
9.D.1. The General Requirement of "Adaptability"	237
9.D.2. Problems Arising from the Loss of Status Due to Emigration and from the Widespread Principle of Seniority in Academic Promotions	240
9.D.3. Different Traditions in Teaching and Unfamiliar Teaching Loads	242
9.D.4. Extraordinary Solutions for Outstanding Immigrants	243
9.D.5. Individualistic European versus Cooperative American Working Style	245
9.D.6. Problems of Moral Prudishness in the United States: The Extreme Case of Carl Ludwig Siegel	247
9.D.7. Language Problems	248
9.D.8. The Need for Publications in the Language of the Host Country	248
9.D.9. Support by Immigrants for Economic and Social Reform, in Particular for New Deal Positions	249
9.D.10. Pressure to Adapt Politically and Political Mistrust against Immigrants on the Part of the Americans	250
9.D.11. Waning Political Restraint on Immigrants after Obtaining American Citizenship and the Impact of the American Entrance into the War	252

9.D.12. Personal Failure of Immigrants in the United States, Due to Age- and Pension-Related Problems	257
9.S. Case Studies	259
9.S.1. The Tragic Fate of a Political Emigrant: Emil Julius Gumbel	259
9.S.2. A Case of Failed Accommodation by an Older Immigrant: Felix Bernstein	262
CHAPTER 10
The Impact of Immigration on American Mathematics	267
10.1. The "Impact of Immigration" Viewed from Various Global, Biographical, National, or Nonmathematical Perspectives	270
10.2. The Institutional and Organizational Impact	276
10.3. The Impact of German-Speaking Immigration in Applied Mathematics	278
10.4. The Inner-Mathematical Impact of German-Speaking Immigration on the United States	284
10.5. The Impact of the "Noether School" and of German Algebra in General	285
10.6. Differences in Mentality, the History and Foundations of Mathematics	294
10.D. Documents	296
10.D.1. The Heterogeneity of the "German-Speaking" Emigration, in Particular Differences between German and Austrian Traditions in Mathematics	296
10.D.2. Losses for Germany	297
10.D.3. The Profits of Emigration for International Communication	297
10.D.4. Impact of the Institutional Side of German Mathematics (Educational System, Libraries)	298
10.D.5. The Development of New Mathematical Centers in the United States	298
10.D.6. Inner-Mathematical Impact on Individual Disciplines	300
10.S. Case Studies	310
10.S.1. The Failure of Richard Brauer's Book on Algebra in 1935, or the Paradoxical Victory of "Talmudic Mathematics" Due to Nazi Rule	310
10.S.2. Late American Criticism of "German Algebra," a Controversy between Garrett Birkhoff and B. L. van der Waerden in the 1970s and Commentary by G.-C. Rota in 1989	315
CHAPTER 11
Epilogue: The Postwar Relationship of German and American Mathematicians	319
11.D. Documents	327
11.D.1. The New Wave of Emigration after the War	327

11.D.2. Remigration and Obstacles to It	327
11.D.3. Resumption of Scientific Communication	328
11.D.4. Compensation for the Emigrants	329
11.D.5. Political "Coping with the Past" ("Vergangenheitsbewältigung")	331
11.S. Case Study	337
11.S.1. A Case of Failed Compensation: Max Dehn	337
APPENDIX 1
Lists of Emigrated (after 1933), Murdered, and Otherwise Persecuted German-Speaking Mathematicians (as of 2008)	341
1.1. List of German-Speaking Mathematicians Who Emigrated during the Nazi Period (First Generation)	343
1.2. List of German-Speaking Mathematicians Who Were Murdered or Driven to Suicide by the Nazis	358
1.3. List of German-Speaking Mathematicians Persecuted in Other Manners (Includes Teachers of Mathematics and Is Probably Incomplete)	360
APPENDIX 2
Excerpt from a Letter by George David Birkhoff from Paris (1928) to His Colleague-Mathematicians at Harvard Concerning the Possibility of or Desirability to Hire Foreigners	366
APPENDIX 3.1
Report Compiled by Harald Bohr "Together with Different German Friends" in May 1933 Concerning the Present Conditions in German Universities, in Particular with Regard to Mathematics and Theoretical Physics	368
APPENDIX 3.2
Translation of a Letter from Professor Karl Löwner of the University of Prague to Professor Louis L. Silverman (Dartmouth College) Dated August 2, 1933	372
APPENDIX 3.3
Richard von Mises's "Position toward the Events of Our Time" in November 1933	374
APPENDIX 3.4
Report by Artur Rosenthal (Heidelberg) from June 1935 on the Boycott of His and Heinrich Liebmann's Mathematical Courses	376

APPENDIX 3.5
Max Pinl—Later the Author of Pioneering Reports (1969–72) on Mathematical Refugees—in a Letter to Hermann Weyl on the Situation in Czechoslovakia Immediately after the Munich Dictate of September 29, 1938	378
APPENDIX 4.1
A Letter by Emmy Noether of January 1935 to the Emergency Committee in New York Regarding Her Scientific and Political Interests during Emigration	380
APPENDIX 4.2
Richard Courant's Resignation from the German Mathematicians' Association DMV in 1935	381
APPENDIX 4.3
Von Mises in His Diary about His Second Emigration, from Turkey to the USA, in 1939	383
APPENDIX 4.4
Hermann Weyl to Harlow Shapley on June 5, 1943, Concerning the Problems of the Immigrant from Göttingen, Felix Bernstein	388
APPENDIX 5.1
Richard Courant in October 1945 to the American Authorities Who Were Responsible for German Scientific Reparation	390
APPENDIX 5.2
Max Dehn's Refusal to Rejoin the German Mathematicians' Association DMV in 1948	393
APPENDIX 6
Memoirs for My Children (1933/1988) by Peter Thullen	394
