

Contents

Foreword	6
Executive summary	14
1. Introduction	20
1.1. Cedefop flash TCRs on apprenticeships	20
1.2. Cedefop flash TCR on apprenticeships in Sweden	22
2. Apprenticeship scheme within upper secondary VET	26
2.1. VET at upper secondary level and introduction of apprenticeships	26
2.2. Apprenticeship in upper secondary education	30
2.3. Education-labour market collaboration and apprenticeship financing	33
2.3.1. School-company cooperation in implementing apprenticeship	33
2.3.2. Programme councils (for VET delivery)	35
2.3.3. Colleges for general education and VET delivery	36
2.3.4. Apprenticeship financing	37
2.4. Conclusions	38
3. Challenges in realising apprenticeship scheme potential benefits	42
3.1. Design: identity and selling point	43
3.2. Design: capacity to align with labour market needs	45
3.3. Implementation: responsibilities and ownership	48
3.4. Implementation: employer engagement	49
3.5. Conclusions	51

4. Areas for reform and suggestions for action	56
4.1. Design: scheme identity, selling point and responsiveness to the labour market	56
4.1.1. Identity and value	56
4.1.2. Responsiveness to labour market needs	57
4.2. Implementation: responsibilities and ownership balance to engage labour market actors	58
4.2.1. Company involvement in learner selection and final assessment	58
4.2.2. Unlocking the potential for cooperation	59
4.3. Conclusions	61
Abbreviations	63
References	64
Annex	71