

Contents

Acknowledgements	i
1. Introduction	1
2. Spiritual Borderlands	10
2.1 Border and Inter-American Studies	10
2.2 A Brief History of the Spiritual Borderlands	26
2.3 Creating a Cultural and Literary Aztlán	46
2.4 Doing Religion: Politics and Discourses	58
3. Spirituality and Gender	75
3.1 Ana Castillo's Feminist Vision in The Guardians	83
3.2 Of Weeping Women and Curanderas: Graciela Limón's The River Flows North	95
3.3 Of Wrestlers and Saints: María Ampara Escandón's Esperanza's Box of Saints	110
4. Spirituality, Homeland, and Ancestry	129
4.1 An American Saint: Luis Alberto Urrea's The Hummingbird's Daughter	129
4.2 Of Gothic Tales and Spiritual Ancestry: Carmen Tafolla's "Tia"	147
5. Post-Spirituality and Undoing Religion	156
5.1 Richard Rodriguez's Darling: A Post-Spiritual Autobiography?	159
5.2 A Cosmos of Its Own: Salvador Plascencia's The People of Paper	170
6. Conclusion	186
7. Works Cited	190