	INTRODUCTION TO THE SERIES	v
	PREFACE	ix
1	INTRODUCTION	1
	1.1 General Remarks	1
	1.2 Purpose	2
	1.3 Previous Studies	4
	1.3.1 The Social Stratification of Linguistic Variables	5
	1.3.2 The Systematic Study of Nonstandard Negro English	9
	1.4 Corpus	14
	1.4.1 Sample	14
	1.4.2 The Interview	16
2	THE SOCIAL SETTING FOR LINGUISTIC DIVERSITY	20
	2.1 Patterns of In-migration	20
	2.2 Racial Isolation	25
	2.2.1 Residential Isolation	26
	2.2.2 Educational Isolation	28
	2.2.3 Peer Group Isolation	29
	2.3 Social Status	32
3	THE LINGUISTIC VARIABLES	42
	3.1 The Linguistic Variable	42
	3.2 The Relation of Variants to NNE and SE Systems	43
	3.3 The Use of Quantitative Methods	47
	3.4 The Variables	49
	3.4.1 The Phonological Variables	49
	3.4.2 The Grammatical Variables	52

4	PHONOLOGICAL VARIABLES	57
	4.1 Word-Final Consonant Clusters	57
	4.1.1 General Procedures	57
	4.1.2 The Correlation of Monomorphemic Clusters with Social Class	59
	4.1.3 The Correlation of Bimorphemic Clusters with Social Class	66
	4.1.4 Social Factors Intersecting with Social Class	74
	4.1.4.1 Style	74
	4.1.4.2 Sex	76
	4.1.4.3 Age	78
	4.1.4.4 Racial Isolation	80
—	4.1.5 Summary	81
	4.2 Morpheme Medial and Final θ	82
—	4.2.1 General Procedures	82
	4.2.2 The Correlation of the θ Variable with Social Class	84
—	4.2.3 Social Factors Intersecting with Social Class	91
	4.2.3.1 Style	91
	4.2.3.2 Sex	91
	4.2.3.3 Age	92
	4.2.3.4 Racial Isolation	94
	4.2.4 Summary	94
	4.3 Syllable-Final d	95
	4.3.1 General Procedures	95
—	4.3.2 The Correlation of the d Variable with Social Class	96
	4.3.3 Social Factors Intersecting with Social Class	104
	4.3.3.1 Style	104
	4.3.3.2 Sex	105

4.3.3.3	Age	106
4.3.3.4	Racial Isolation	107
4.3.4	Summary	108
4.4	Postvocalic r	109
4.4.1	General Procedures	109
4.4.2	The Correlation of the r Variable with Social Class	110
4.4.3	Social Factors Intersecting with Social Class	115
4.4.3.1	Style	115
4.4.3.2	Sex	116
4.4.3.3	Age	116
4.4.3.4	Racial Isolation	118
4.4.4	Summary	118
4.5	The Sociolinguistic Function of the Phonological Variable: Conclusion	119
4.5.1	The Social Factors Conditioning Phonological Variation	119
4.5.2	Independent Linguistic Factors Affecting Variability	126
5	GRAMMATICAL VARIABLES	134
5.1	Suffixal -Z	134
5.1.1	Procedure for Tabulation	134
5.1.2	The Correlation of Suffixal -Z with Social Class	135
5.1.2.1	Third Person Singular -Z	135
5.1.2.2	Possessive -Z	141
5.1.2.3	Plural -Z	143
5.1.3	Social Factors Intersecting with Social Class	147
5.1.3.1	Style	147
5.1.3.2	Sex	148
5.1.3.3	Age	148

5.1.3.4	Racial Isolation	151
5.1.4	Summary	151
5.2	Multiple Negation	152
5.2.1	Procedure for Tabulation	155
5.2.2	The Correlation of Multiple Negation with Social Class	156
5.2.3	Social Factors Intersecting with Social Class	161
5.2.3.1	Style	161
5.2.3.2	Sex	162
5.2.3.3	Age	162
5.2.3.4	Racial Isolation	163
5.2.4	Summary	164
5.3	Copula/Auxiliary 'be' Absence	165
5.3.1	Procedure for Tabulation	167
5.3.2	The Correlation of Copula Absence with Social Class	168
5.3.3	Social Factors Intersecting with Social Class	177
5.3.3.1	Style	177
5.3.3.2	Sex	177
5.3.3.3	Age	178
5.3.3.4	Racial Isolation	178
5.3.4	Summary	179
5.4	Invariant 'be'	180
5.4.1	Procedure for Tabulation	196
5.4.2	The Correlation of Invariant ' be ' with Social Class	197
5.4.3	Social Factors Intersecting with Social Class	199
5.4.3.1	Style	199
5.4.3.2	Sex	200
5.4.3.3	Age	201

5.4.3.4	Racial Isolation	201
5.4.4	Summary	201
5.5	The Sociolinguistic Function of the Grammatical Variable: Conclusion	202
5.5.1	The Social Function of the Grammatical Variable	202
5.5.2	The Linguistic Function of the Grammatical Variable	206
6	CONCLUSION	214
6.1	Summary of Principal Conclusions	214
6.2	Implications for Further Research	218
	APPENDIX A: List of Informants	221
	APPENDIX B: Detroit Dialect Study Questionnaire . . .	223
