

A 354800

Philip Andrews-
Speed,
Xuanli Liao and
Roland Dannreuther

---

The Strategic
Implications of China's Energy Needs

Adelphi Paper 346

Contents

---

5	List of Figures, Tables and Maps
7	Introduction
11	Chapter 1 China's Energy Security Policy
	• Energy Security 13
	• Why China has an Energy Security Problem 20
	• China's Energy Security Policy 24
	• Evaluation of China's Approach 42
45	Chapter 2 China's Energy Security Policymaking and Implementation
	• The Actors and Their Priorities 46
	• Xinjiang: The West-to-East Gas Pipeline 53
	• Central Asia: Gas from Turkmenistan and Oil from Kazakhstan 58
	• Russia: A Source of Oil and Gas 61
	• The Middle East: A Crucial Source of Oil 65
	• Conclusion 67
71	Chapter 3 The Strategic Implications of China's Energy Needs
	• Implications for Global Oil Supplies 74
	• Military and Security Implications 77
	• Geopolitical Implications for East Asia 82
	• Implications for Middle East Stability 89
	• Implications for Domestic Stability 93
99	Conclusion
103	Notes