

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	VII
1. Introduction	1
The golden age of Ptolemaic Alexandria.	1
Patronage and court society	3
Hellenistic poetry as l'art pour l'art	5
Understanding Ptolemaic literary patronage	9
Court and empire in the Ptolemaic world	11
Understanding the role of the court	18
How this book is structured	21
2. The historical background	25
The Argead royal court	25
From Companions to Friends.	27
Cultural patronage before the Hellenistic Age	29
Cultural patronage in the third century BCE.	33
The mouseion of Alexandria	37
Conclusion	40
3. Royal courts in the Hellenistic World.	41
What is a court?	41
The Queen at Court	45
Court and empire	49
The Friends of the King.	51
The Royal Council.	52
Court titles	53
The Royal Pages	55
Proximity to the throne	57
Conflict and competition	59
Conclusion	61
4. The ties that bind: philia , xenia and gift exchange	63
Friendship and court society	63
Guest-friendship	65

Hierarchy	66
Brokerage	67
Gift exchange	69
Conclusion	73
5. Patrons and clients	75
Why court patronage?	75
The usefulness of court patronage	76
Prestige	84
Competition	86
Accumulation and appropriation	92
Social Cohesion	93
Conclusion	97
6. Poets are a king's best friends: the Hellenistic poet as royal philos	99
Poets and scholars as courtiers	99
Poetry and patron: the case of Theokritos and Hieron	104
Reciprocity	109
Competition and innovation	110
Conclusion	113
7. Power Poetry: Images of empire in Alexandrian court poetry	115
Praising the king and queen	115
World Empire and Golden Age	120
From Zeus to Ptolemy	123
Peace and prosperity	127
Hellenism and empire.	130
Conclusion	133
8. From polis to oikoumene : The imperial world view in scholar- ship and philosophy	135
Philosophy	135
Astronomy	138
Historiography, geography, ethnography	141
Conclusion	145
9. Conclusion: Patronage, court and empire	147
Bibliography.	153
Index	181