

CONTENTS

CHAPTER	PAGE
I. A small boy at St. Helena—Thackeray's ancestors—The elephant-hunter and his wife—Peter Moore—Richmond Thackeray—The small boy in England—Childhood—Charterhouse—Cambridge—'Spouting' at the Union—First literary efforts	17
II. FitzGerald and Kemble—Mr. Pendennis at Weimar—Reading in chambers—Man about town—Charles Buller—Dr. Maginn—Comes of age—The National Standard —Its failure—Art student and Fraserian	40
III. In Paris—Wild oats—The Constitutional —Marriage—The Paris correspondent—Ruin—John Forster—Grub Street—Birth of Michael Angelo Titmarsh	61
IV. The journalist—Yellowplush and Major Gahagan— The Great Hoggarty Diamond —Hack work—N. P. Willis— Catherine —Politics—The Whitey-Brown Paper Magazine —The tragedy of his wife	81
V. Poverty—The Paris Sketch Book — The Second Funeral of Napoleon —The Proctors—On The Times — Comic Tales and Sketches —Electioneering—Miscellaneous journalism—Trip to Ireland—Charles Lever	100
VI. The attic in Jermyn Street—Benjamin Disraeli—The Pictorial Times and Punch —Tavern haunts—Tennyson—The Fitz-Boodle Papers — Barry Lyndon —On Carlyle's 'penny ferry-boat'— From Cornhill to Grand Cairo —With Morier and Horace Smith at Brighton	122
VII. The Brookfields—Thackeray's friends—'Father Prout' and W. H. Brookfield—The Edinburgh and Abraham Hayward—Colburn's rejection—Harrison Ainsworth—Beginning Vanity Fair —Success of the Snob Papers —Takes No. 13 Young Street—His devotion to his daughters—Social life—Caroline Norton and Coventry Patmore	144

CHAPTER		PAGE
VIII.	Vanity Fair —Success and celebrity— Punch's Prize Novelists —Lever and G. P. R. James—Forster and Dickens—Charlotte Brontë and the dedication scandal—Thackeray's Christmas books—Rivalry with Dickens—Effect of success on Thackeray	169
IX.	Jane Brookfield—Her character and charm—Her paramount influence upon Thackeray—First of his Continental summer holidays, 1848—His yearning for feminine sympathy—Devotion to Mrs. Brookfield—Social life—The end of Gore House	191
X.	The pace begins to tell—Writing Pendennis —Habit of work—From Brighton to Paris—Serious illness—Convalescence at Brighton— Rebecca and Rowena —Meets Charlotte Brontë—Forster and The Dignity of Literature —His parents in Paris—Friends and social affairs	217
XI.	Relations with Punch —Douglas Jerrold—'Blanche Amory'—The Ashburtons and Henry Taylor—An absurd incident—Finishes Pendennis —Death of Harry Hallam— The Kickleburys on the Rhine —'Thunder and small beer'—Plans for the future	241
XII.	Thackeray as lecturer— The English Humourists —The event of the social season—Charlotte Brontë again—Her criticism of Thackeray—Rupture with the Brookfields—Loneliness—Writing Esmond —Touring the lectures—Scotland—The final break with Punch —On the Continent in 1852—Carlyle on Thackeray—Off to America	261
XIII.	The first American visit, 1852-53—His success in America—Back in London and beginning The Newcomes —Holiday in Switzerland—Broken health—Winters at Rome—Writing The Rose and the Ring —Moves to 36 Onslow Square—Constantly ill—End of The Newcomes —Preparations for second American visit	283
XIV.	The second American visit, 1855-56— The Four Georges —Through the southern states—Home again—Continual illness—Hesitation over a new novel—His great lecturing campaign—Fighting disease—A candidate for Parliament—Begins The Virginians —Ill-health—Despondence—The effect upon his work	312

CONTENTS

9

CHAPTER

PAGE

XV. Mr. Thackeray, Mr. Yates, and the Garrick Club— Dickens's conduct—The foundation of the Cornhill Magazine — Thackeray's affluence—His editorial eccentricities— His acquaintance with Trollope—The Athenæum squabble— Phenomenal success of Cornhill —Character of his later writings— Builds the house on Palace Green—Method of work—Resignation from Cornhill — Philip and Frederick Walker—Last year of life— Denis Duval — Sudden death	337
---	-----

APPENDICES

I. Thackeray's Life at a Glance: Summary of Events	366
--	-----

II. Bibliography:

(i) Published Books—Novels, Stories, Sketches, etc.	372
(ii) Novels in Numbers	377
(iii) Contributions to Newspapers and Periodicals	380
(iv) Contributions to Almanacks, Annuals, etc.	390

POSTSCRIPT

393

INDEX

399