

CONTENTS

PREFACE	vii
INTRODUCTION: A Private-Public Cycle?	3
1. On Disappointment	9
The Role of Disappointment in Preference Change	9
Taking Disappointment Seriously	14
2. Varieties of Consumer Disappointment	25
The Privileged Position of Truly Nondurable Goods	27
Consumer Durables	32
Services	39
3. The General Hostility Toward New Wealth	46
Historical Evidence from the Eighteenth Century in England and France	46
The Manifold Case against New Goods	53
4. From Private Concerns into the Public Arena—I	62
Exit and Voice Reactions to Consumer Disappointment	62
Explaining Changes in Life-Styles: Ideology and Second-Order Volitions	66
5. From Private Concerns into the Public Arena—II	77
Collective Action and the Rebound Effect	77
Why Free Rides Are Spurned	82
6. The Frustrations of Participation in Public Life—I	92
The Poverty of Our Imagination	93
Overcommitment and Addiction	96
7. The Frustrations of Participation in Public Life—II	103
The Underinvolvement of Voting	103
A Historical Digression on the Origins of Universal Suffrage	112

8. Privatization	121
Corruption	123
Public Virtue Debunked	125
Attractions of the Private Sphere	128
CONCLUSION	131
INDEX	135