

Table of Contents

1. Introduction.....	9
2. Research Survey	13
3. The Child.....	23
4. The Kidult.....	31

Part 1: Reading Harry Potter and Twilight

5. “In the wizarding world, we come of age at seventeen.” Childhood, Adulthood and Coming of Age in Harry Potter	37
5.1 School and Coming of Age: The Nostalgic Nightmare of the School Story	37
5.1.1 Harry Potter and the Literary Tradition of the School Story	38
5.1.2 Harry Potter and the Haunted Castle	43
5.2 Lord Voldemort: Monstrous Infant and Kidult.....	46
5.3 “His money’s worth” – Capitalism, Consumption and Coming of Age.....	54
5.4 The Boy Who Saved the World: The Adventure Plot as Male Coming of Age.....	62
5.5 The Representation of Age in Harry Potter	70
6. “And how long have you been seventeen?” – Childhood, Adulthood and Coming of Age in Twilight	75
6.1. The Nuclear Family and Coming of Age	77
6.1.1 Twilight and the Conventions of Teen Vampire Fiction	77
6.1.2 Twilight and the Mother–Daughter Problem	88
6.2 The Body and Coming of Age: Twilight as Makeover Narrative and Marriage Plot	94
6.3 “But how could I let him give me things?” – Capitalism, Consumption and Coming of Age.....	105
6.4 Childhood as Lack: the Vampire Child	107
6.5 The Representation of Age in Twilight	113
7. Childhood and the Discourse of Crisis: The Haunted Return of the Father	115

Part 2: Readers of Harry Potter and Twilight

8. The Kidult: Adulthood and the Discourse of Crisis	121
8.1 The Adult Readers of Harry Potter and Twilight	121
8.1.1 Harry Potter and the Kidult Reader.....	127
8.1.2 Modes of Consumption: Kidults and Fandom.....	130
8.1.3 Gender and the Kidult: Twilight and the Twilight Moms	133
8.1.4. Modes of Consumption, Continued: Kidults and the Dangers of Reading.....	138
9. Age, Gender, Class and Economy	141
10. Conclusion.....	145
11. Epilogue	149
12. Acknowledgements	151
13. Works Cited.....	153
13.1 Print and Web.....	153
13.2 Film and Television.....	165