

Contents

List of figures	x
Notes on contributors	xiii
Acknowledgments	xvi

Introduction – Early modern scientific networks: knowledge and community in a globalizing world, 1500–1800	1
PAULA FINDLEN

PART I

Brokers of knowledge	23
-----------------------------	-----------

1 A scholarly intermediary between the Ottoman Empire and Renaissance Europe	25
ROBERT MORRISON

2 How information travels: Jesuit networks, scientific knowledge, and the early modern Republic of Letters, 1540–1640	57
PAULA FINDLEN

3 Deciphering the Ignatian Tree: the Catholic horoscope of the Society of Jesus	106
MARCELO ARANDA

4 The early modern information factory: how Samuel Hartlib turned correspondence into knowledge	126
CAROL PAL

PART II

Configuring scientific networks 159

- 5 Letters and questionnaires: the correspondence of Henry Oldenburg and the early Royal Society of London's Inquiries for Natural History 161

JORDAN AVRAMOV

- 6 Ingenuous investigators: Antonio Vallisneri's regional network and the making of natural knowledge in eighteenth-century Italy 181

IVANO DAL PRETE

- 7 Corresponding in war and peace: the challenge of rebooting Anglo-French scientific relations during the Peace of Amiens 205

ELISE LIFKOWITZ

PART III

How knowledge travels 223

- 8 Giant bones and the Taunton Stone: American antiquities, world history, and the Protestant International 225

LYDIA BARNETT

- 9 The tarot of Yu the Great: the search for civilization's origins between France and China in the Age of Enlightenment 246

ALEXANDER STATMAN

- 10 Spaces of circulation and empires of knowledge: ethnolinguistics and cartography in early colonial India 269

KAPIL RAJ

PART IV

The local and the global 295

- 11 Recentering centers of calculation: reconfiguring knowledge networks within global empires of trade 297

MATTHEW SARGENT

12 The Atlantic World medical complex	317
LONDA SCHIEBINGER
13 Samedo's sixteen secrets: tracing pharmaceutical networks in the Portuguese tropics	342
BENJAMIN BREEN
EPILOGUE
Scientific networks reconsidered	365
14 Following ghosts: skinning science in early modern Eurasia	367
CARLA NAPPI
15 Conceptualizing knowledge networks: agents and patterns of "flow"	373
RACHEL MIDURA
16 Afterword	378
HAROLD J. COOK
Index	386