

Contents

Annotation and Footnotes	x
Acknowledgements	xi
Introduction	I
I: Contexts
Contextual Overview	7
Revenge and Tyrannicide ✕	7
The Theatre and Politics	11
Marriage	13
✕Madness and Melancholy	14 ✕
Chronology	17
Contemporary Documents	20
A summary of the story of 'Amleth' in Saxo Grammaticus' Historicae Danicae (1514)	20
A Homily Against Disobedience and Wilful Rebellion (1574)	21
Desiderius Erasmus, The Education of a Christian Prince (1516)	23
Francis Bacon, The Essays: 'Of Revenge' (1625)	25
2: Interpretations
Critical History	29
Pre-Romantic Criticism: Can We Admire the Prince?	29
Romantic Criticism: Why We Should Identify With the Prince	31
Modernist Criticism: Below the Surface	32

Late Twentieth-Century Criticism (1): Psychoanalysis	34
Late Twentieth-Century Criticism (2): History and Politics	36
Early Critical Reception	41
James Drake, The Ancient and Modern Stages Surveyed (1699)	41
Anthony Cooper, Earl of Shaftesbury, Soliloquy, or Advice to an Author (1710)	42
Samuel Johnson, Notes to the Edition of Shakespeare's Plays (1765)	43
Samuel Taylor Coleridge, 'Bristol Lecture' (1813)	44
William Hazlitt, Characters of Shakespeare's Plays (1817)	46
Modern Criticism	48
Sigmund Freud, The Interpretation of Dreams (1900)	48
A. C. Bradley, Shakespearean Tragedy (1904)	49
T. S. Eliot, 'Hamlet' in Selected Essays (1919)	53
John Dover Wilson, What Happens in 'Hamlet' (1935)	55
Terence Hawkes, 'Telmah' (1986)	56
Valerie Traub, 'Desire and Anxiety: Circulations of Sexuality in Shakespearean Drama' (1992, essay originally published 1988)	62
Graham Holderness, 'Are Shakespeare's tragic heroes "fatally flawed"? Discuss' (1989)	65
Carol Thomas Neely, ' "Documents in Madness": Reading Madness and Gender in Shakespeare's Tragedies and Early Modern Culture' (1991)	66
Alan Sinfield, Faultlines: Cultural Materialism and the Politics of Dissident Reading (1992)	70
Philip Armstrong, 'Watching Hamlet Watching: Lacan, Shakespeare and the Mirror/Stage' (1996)	75
Lisa Jardine, Reading Shakespeare Historically (1996)	78
John Kerrigan, Revenge Tragedy (1996)	81
Kiernan Ryan, Shakespeare (2002)	85
Stephen Greenblatt, Hamlet in Purgatory (2002)	87
The Work in Performance	91
Hamlet On Stage	91
Edwin Booth (1860–91): Robert Hapgood, Shakespeare in Production: 'Hamlet' (1999)	95
David Warner (1965): Ronald Bryden (1967) on Peter Hall's production of Hamlet	98
Samuel West (2001): Steven Pimlott, interviewed by the sourcebook editor	100
Hamlet On Film	101
Directed by Laurence Olivier (1948): Anthony B. Dawson, Shakespeare in Performance: 'Hamlet' (1995)	103

Directed by Franco Zeffirelli (1990): Neil Taylor, ‘The Films of Hamlet ’ (1994)	105
Directed by Kenneth Branagh (1997): Julie Sanders, ‘The End of History and the Last Man’ (2000)	107

3: Key Passages

Introduction 113

The Texts of Hamlet	113
Plot Summary	115
A Note on the Passages	119

Key Passages 120

Act 1, Scene 1, lines 1–22: sentry duty at Elsinore	120
Act 1, Scene 1, lines 61–119: news of Fortinbras	121
Act 1, Scene 2, lines 64–86: Claudius and Hamlet’s first exchange	124
Act 1, Scene 2, lines 129–59: first soliloquy – Hamlet’s private grief	126
Act 1, Scene 5, lines 9–112: the Ghost speaks to Hamlet	128
Act 2, Scene 2, lines 544–601: second soliloquy – Hamlet’s response to the Player’s speech	132
Act 3, Scene 1, lines 56–88: Hamlet’s third soliloquy	136
Act 3, Scene 2, lines 181–264: the performance of The Murder of Gonzago	139
Act 3, Scene 3, lines 36–98: Claudius prays; Hamlet’s opportunity to strike	143
Act 3, Scene 4, lines 53–160: the central part of the ‘closet’ scene – Hamlet and Gertrude alone together	146
Act 4, Scene 5, lines 16–168: Ophelia’s madness and Laertes’s rebellion	151
Act 5, Scene 1, lines 1–118: the gravediggers	157
Act 5, Scene 2, lines 213–408: the final duel; the deaths of Gertrude, Claudius, Laertes and Hamlet and the entry of Fortinbras	162

4: Further Reading

Collections of Essays	173
Critical Interpretations	173
Stage and Film History	175
Online Resources	176
Selected Videos and DVDs	177

Index	179
-------	-----