

CONTENTS

- 1 SEYMOUR L. GROSS: Introduction: Stereotype to Archetype: The Negro in American Literary Criticism

TRADITIONS

- 29 I. MILTON CANTOR: The Image of the Negro in Colonial Literature
- 54 II. TREMAINE McDOWELL: The Negro in the Southern Novel Prior to 1850
- 71 III. THEODORE L. GROSS: The Negro in the Literature of the Reconstruction
- 84 IV. LESLIE A. FIEDLER: The Blackness of Darkness: The Negro and the Development of American Gothic
- 106 V. EUGENE ARDEN: The Early Harlem Novel
- 115 VI. RALPH ELLISON: Twentieth-Century Fiction and the Black Mask of Humanity

INDIVIDUAL TALENTS

- 135 VII. SIDNEY KAPLAN: Herman Melville and the American National Sin
- 163 VIII. SEVERN DUVALL: Uncle Tom's Cabin: The Sinister Side of the Patriarchy
- 181 IX. JAMES M. COX: Pudd'nhead Wilson: The End of Mark Twain's American Dream
- 194 X. ARTHUR P. DAVIS: The Harlem of Langston Hughes' Poetry

CONTENTS

- 204 XI. IRVING HOWE: Faulkner and the Negroes
- 221 XII. JOHN EDWARD HARDY: Eudora Welty's Negroes
- 233 XIII. JAMES BALDWIN: Many Thousands Gone: Richard Wright's Native Son
- 249 XIV. MARCUS KLEIN: Ralph Ellison's Invisible Man
- 265 XV. ROBERT A. BONE: The Novels of James Baldwin
- 289 Bibliography
- 317 Index