

SCRAPED, STROKED, AND BOUND

MATERIALLY ENGAGED READINGS OF MEDIEVAL MANUSCRIPTS

edited by

Jonathan Wilcox

BREPOLS

Contents

Epigraphs	v
Contents	xi
Acknowledgements	xiii
List of Figures and Plates	xv
 Introduction: The Philology of Smell JONATHAN WILCOX	 1
 Scribes in Action
 Anglo-Saxon Scribal Habitus and Frankish Aesthetics in an Early Uncial Manuscript MATTHEW T. HUSSEY	 15
On the Nature of Matched Scribal Hands PATRICK W. CONNER	39
A Modern Scribe Views Scribes of the Past CHERYL JACOBSEN	75
 Substrata: Skin and Paper
 Parchment Production: A Brief Account JESSE MEYER	 93
Unruly Reading: The Consuming Role of Touch in the Experience of a Medieval Manuscript JENNIFER BORLAND	97
Parchment, Paper, and Artisanal Research Techniques TIMOTHY BARRETT	115

Structure

Material Quality of Medieval Bookbindings
GARY FROST	129
The East-West, Then-Now Binding Nexus
ELSI VASSDAL ELLIS	135
The Cistercian Manuscript, Trent 1711, Version One and Its Exemplar
CONSTANCE H. BERMAN	159

The Whole Book

Dismembering and Reconstructing MS Durham, Cathedral Library, A.IV.19
KAREN LOUISE JOLLY	177
“ Lymned to his awne vse ”: The Illuminated Realm of John Lacy, Book Artisan and Anchorite, in MS Oxford, St. John’s College Library, 94
MARTHA RUST	201
Plates	225
Contributors and List of Participants	239