

Contents

Preface	viii
Preface to Fourth Edition	xi
Introduction	1
Further reading	10
Part 1: Social Justice	13
Concept v. conceptions: the case of justice	14
Hayek v. social justice	21
Rawls: justice as fairness	23
Nozick: justice as entitlement	31
Popular opinion: justice as desert	39
Social justice v. global justice	47
Conclusion	52
Further reading	53
Part 2: Democracy	55
What is democracy?	57
Degrees of democracy	60
1 Directness or indirectness of the decision	60
2 Accountability of representatives	62

3	Equality (of opportunity) for influence	64
4	Scope of authority of democratic will	66
	Procedures and outcomes	68
	Is democracy paradoxical?	71
	Subjectivism, democracy and disagreement	74
	The values of democracy	77
	Intrinsic 1: freedom as autonomy	78
	Intrinsic 2: self-realization	81
	Intrinsic 3: equality	82
	Instrumental 1: good or correct decisions	86
	Instrumental 2: intellectual and moral development of citizens	92
	Instrumental 3: perceived legitimacy	93
	Conclusion	95
	Further reading	96
	Part 3: Liberalism and Community	99
	Correcting misunderstandings and misrepresentations	102
	Objection 1: Liberals assume that people are selfish or egoistic	104
	Objection 2: Liberals advocate a minimal state	105
	Objection 3: Liberals emphasize rights rather than duties or responsibilities	106
	Objection 4: Liberals believe that values are subjective or relative	110
	Objection 5: Liberals neglect the way in which individuals are socially constituted	113
	Objection 6: Liberals fail to see the significance of communal relations, shared values and a common identity	115
	Objection 7: Liberals wrongly think that the state can and should be neutral	118
	Summary	122
	Outstanding issues	124
	1 Liberalism, neutrality and multiculturalism	124
	2 Liberalism, the nation-state and global justice	129
	Conclusion	135
	Further reading	137
	Part 4: Liberty	139
	Two concepts of liberty?	140
	Three distinctions between conceptions of liberty	142
	1 Effective freedom v. formal freedom	142

2	Freedom as autonomy v. freedom as doing what one wants	146
3	Freedom as political participation v. freedom beginning where politics ends	150
	Freedom, private property, the market and redistribution	154
	Resisting the totalitarian menace	162
	Conclusion	171
	Further reading	172
	Part 5: Equality	175
	The egalitarian plateau	177
	Equality of opportunity	181
	Gender equality	188
	Race and equality	194
	Equality and relativities: should we mind the gap?	201
	Positional goods	209
	Three positions that look egalitarian but aren't really	211
1	Utilitarianism (or any aggregative principle)	212
2	Diminishing principles, priority to the worse off, and maximin	213
3	Entitlement and sufficiency	215
	Equality strikes back	216
	Conclusion	223
	Further reading	224
	Conclusion	226
	Further reading	230
	Index	232