

nance of liaison between often widely scattered editors and Cornell University Press, where as usual the Cornell Modern Indonesia Project is very much indebted to Miss Evelyn Boyce for her editorial perceptiveness and understanding patience. Finally, the editors wish to acknowledge their gratitude to Miss D. Wiradikarta, whose diligence, devotion, and unfailing readiness as editorial assistant in Indonesia throughout the preparation of the manuscript have been of invaluable help in the organizational and editorial aspects of this project. Needless to say, the editors remain fully responsible for any shortcomings the book may still have.

We wish also to express our appreciation for the permission given us to use copyrighted material as follows: by C. C. Berg for translations we made from three of his papers appearing in the periodicals Indonesië and MKAWAL and in Geschiedenis van Nederlandsch Indië edited by F. W. Stapel; by W. M. Hawley, Publishers, for a quotation from Han Yu-Shan's Elements of Chinese Historiography; and by Oxford University Press for quotations from R. G. Collingwood's An Autobiography and D. G. E. Hall's Historians of South East Asia.

In addition, the editors gratefully acknowledge their indebtedness to the Royal Netherlands Geographical Society for its generosity in extending permission for the utilization of its Atlas of the Tropical Netherlands (The Hague, 1938) in the drafting of maps for this book. The first three maps given here are adaptations, and the fourth largely a reproduction, of maps appearing on page 10 of the Atlas.

GEORGE MCT. KAHIN

Ithaca, New York
August 25, 1964

CONTENTS

Preface, by George McT. Kahin	v
Introduction, by Soedjatmoko	xi
Abbreviations	xxvii
I Historiographical Problems, by Mohammad Ali	1
II Preseventeenth-Century Indonesian History: Sources and Directions, by L. Ch. Damais	24
III Archaeology and Indonesian History, by R. Soekmono	36
IV Epigraphy and Indonesian Historiography, by Buchari	47
V Local Traditions and the Study of Indonesian History, by Hoesein Djajadiningrat	74
VI The Javanese Picture of the Past, by C. C. Berg	87
VII Later Javanese Sources and Historiography, by H. J. de Graaf	119
VIII Origins of South Celebes Historical Writing, by J. Noorduyn	137
IX Some Malay Historical Sources: A Bibliographical Note, by J. C. Bottoms	156
X Chinese Historical Sources and Historiography, by Tjan Tjoe Som	194

XI	Recent Japanese Sources for Indonesian Historiography, by Koichi Kishi	206
XII	Some Portuguese Sources for Indonesian Historiography, by C. R. Boxer	217
XIII	Dutch Historical Sources, by Graham Irwin	234
XIV	English Sources for the Modern Period of Indonesian History, by John Bastin	252
XV	Soviet Sources for Indonesian History, by Ruth T. McVey	272
XVI	Use of Anthropological Methods in Indonesian Historiography, by Koentjaraningrat	299
XVII	The Significance of the Study of Culture and Religion for Indonesian Historiography, by P. J. Zoetmulder	326
XVIII	The Sociological Approach, by W. F. Wertheim	344
XIX	The Significance of the History of International Law in Indonesia, by G. J. Resink	359
XX	The Significance of the Comparative Approach in Asian Historiography, by J. M. Romein	380
XXI	Aspects of an Indonesian Economic Historiography, by F. J. E. Tan	395
XXII	The Indonesian Historian and His Time, by Soedjatmoko	404
	Index	417

MAPS

1	Places of Historical Importance in Indonesian Archipelago and Southern Part of Malay Peninsula	preceding 1
2	Javanese Kingdoms before 1525	86
3	Javanese Kingdoms after 1525	118
4	Expansion of Dutch Authority in the East Indies	facing 358